BANKHEAD SUIT OUSTED

Blow in Former Case to Cost
$200,000,000; Processors
Favored

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(UP)—The new deal suffered a $200,000,000 defeat in the Supreme court today when the tribunal ruled that processors who challenged AAA taxes in federal court suits under the amended law were entitled to injunctions against their collections.

The court, ruling on a series of test cases brought by Louisiana Rice millers, held that, in the situation prevailing between passage of the AAA amendments August 24 and the outlawing of the AAA last week processors were entitled to injunctions against collection of the tax.

The Supreme court took no action Monday in the validity of the Tennessee Valley authority. The decision is expected next week.

New Theory Seen
The decision was interpreted by the administration as establishing a new theory in tax collection procedure. It will also add materially to the administration's 1937 budget problem.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(UP)—The Supreme Court today dismissed without passing on the merits, the suit of Lee Moor, Texas cotton planter, to have the Bankhead cotton control act declared unconstitutional.

Showdown Postponed
The ruling served to postpone the judicial showdown on the contested law until the court acts on the suit of the state of Georgia to have the statute ruled invalid. The Georgia suit has been accepted by the court and a ruling may be expected some time after Jan. 20 when the government is to file an answer. The Georgia suit was brought at the direction of Gov. Eugene Talmadge, a sharp critic of the New Deal.

FORMER AKRON SHERIFF TRIED IN "SYNDICATE"

CLEVELAND, Jan. 13—(UP)—Ray Potts, former Summit-co sheriff, and 19 others went on trial in federal court here today on charges resulting from the discovery of a huge northern Ohio liquor syndicate.

Sentences of nine others who pleaded guilty to indictments charging conspiracy to violate internal revenue laws were withheld by Judge Samuel H. West until the trials are completed. Potts was accused of accepting money for "protection" from bootleggers.

DAVEY ON RADIO

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—(UP)—In his weekly radio talk tonight, Governor Davey will discuss the work of the state division of insurance, it was announced today.

Only Doctor Jailed

REFUSING to pay the court costs of $400 ordered by the court at his contested divorce suit, Dr. E. C. Bechtel of Montgomery, Mich., only doctor in a township of 800 residents, was ordered to Hillsdale county jail. Efforts of citizens to get him out of jail by appealing to the judge as a safeguard against possible effects of the cold weather and prevailing pneumonia and croup, met with rebuff by the judge who persisted in payment first.

YOUTH IS JAILED AFTER ACCIDENT

Bernard Fetherolf, 18, Faced
with Drunk Driving Charge

Bernard Fetherolf, 18, Laurelville, Rt. 3, was arrested by police Saturday night for driving when intoxicated after his auto struck the car of Charles Smith, parked on S. Court-st near the Pickens restaurant.

Officers chased Fetherolf south on Court to Mound and west on Mound, and arrested him after he had turned around and was driving out E. Mound-st. Raymond Allen, 19, and Norwood Haynes, 20, both of Laurelville, riding with Fetherolf, posted $5 bonds to appear Monday night on drunk and disorderly charges. Charles Thompson, 19, Laurelville, Rt. 2, also in the car, was released by Chief William McCrady.

At the request of the family, Fetherolf's hearing will be held Tuesday. He is held in city jail.

LIBERTY BALL SYMBOL OF PARTY'S CONVENTION

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—(UP)—The Liberty bell will be the symbol and insignia of the 1936 Democratic National convention.

This was revealed by W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the party's national committee, who came to Philadelphia to inspect Convention hall, scene of the June convention. "This Liberty bell which we so reverently salute," Morgan said, "this bell which tolled its message of freedom and happiness, will be the symbol and insignia of the Democratic National convention." Morgan asserted that he had been authorized by Postmaster General James Farley, chairman of the national committee, to make the statement.

Morgan and other members of the committee who accompanied him here also indicated that President Roosevelt probably would make his speech accepting renomination for the Presidency in Franklin field.

Jersey Governor Changes Mind Concerning Retension of "Jafsie" Condon

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 13—(UP)—The hope of Bruno Richard Hauptmann to escape the electric chair next Friday all but died today. New Jersey law barred his way to every avenue except a forlorn appeal to federal courts. A possible reprieve had been ruled illegal.

Except for the remote possibility that a federal court might intervene, the entire burden of deciding Hauptmann's fate descended upon Gov. Harold G. Hoffman. And his authority was dubious. Attorney General David T. Wilentz declared that he had no power whatever to grant a reprieve.

Attorneys for Hauptmann launched their last fight for his life by employing a Washington firm of constitutional lawyers to advise them in preparing an appeal to a Federal District court for a writ of habeas corpus. The application for the writ will stipulate that an appeal is to be taken to the U. S. Supreme court on new constitutional grounds.

Refusal Demanded

Lawyers outside Hauptmann's counsel believes almost unanimously that the writ would not be granted. The Supreme court already has refused to intervene.

Despite opinions that a reprieve would be illegal, Gov. Hoffman in-

BUNDESEN CHOSEN FOR GOVERNOR OVER HORNER

CHICAGO, Jan. 13—(UP)—Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health and a leading figure in the national fight to control contagious diseases, was endorsed by the Illinois Democratic organization today as candidate for governor.

Gov. Henry Horner, unpopular for his sales tax and at swords points with the Chicago Democratic machine, was rejected.

KIPLING UNDER KNIFE

LONDON, Jan. 13—(UP)—Rudyard Kipling, poet of empire, underwent an urgent abdominal operation today at Middlesex hospital.

He was taken to the hospital in an ambulance from the hotel in the west end at which he and Mrs. Kipling arrived Thursday. Within an hour, A. E. Webb-Johnson, gastric and abdominal specialist, operated on him.

SULKIN SAVED AGAIN

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—(UP)—For the fourth time since July 19, Jacob "Firetop" Sulkin, Toledo gangster, was given a temporary stay of his death sentence on murder charges.

Governor Martin L. Davey granted Sulkin's fourth reprieve today, postponing execution of the sentence until March 13.

Sulkin was to have died in the electric chair tonight in connection with the Toledo gang murders.

The police department had two coats Monday found in the downtown district between Franklin and Main-st. Police believe they might have been stolen from a car Saturday night and then thrown away.

GRANDCHILDREN NAMED IN MRS. HUMBLE'S WILL

The will of Mrs. Lida Humble, Walnut-twp., filer for probate Monday leaves $1,000 to each of her four grandchildren, Helen, George, Donald and Frank Coon, and the balance of her estate to her daughter, Mrs. J. Arthur Coon, Walnut-twp.

The document, written April 27, 1926, directs a monument, costing not less than $1,000 be erected on the family lot in Reber Hill cemetery.

WOMAN ON WAY TO CHURCH RUNS INN. & W.'SPATH

Death is Instant Sunday
Morning for Aged Resident of Home and Hospital

FUNERAL TUESDAY AT 10

Two Brothers, Number of
Nieces and Nephews Survive Fairfield-Co Native

Miss Mary Isabell Will, 82, a resident of the Home and Hospital was killed instantly Sunday morning while on her way to the Presbyterian church services when struck by a Norfolk and Western freight train at the Ohio-st crossing.

Miss Will left the institution about 9 a.m. Floyd Moats, 391 W. Ohio-st., a WPA employee, was standing in front of his home as she passed. He watched her approach the crossing. "She broke into a run about 15 feet from the tracks," Mr. Moats said, "and it looked as if she wanted to get across before the train arrived. I believe she was right in the center of the track when the engine struck her. It happened so quickly I didn't have time to call to her."

Body Carried 100 Feet

Her body was carried down the track approximately 100 feet, and was badly mangled. She was found lying between the rails. One leg was severed from the body.

The train, an extra freight on the line, was traveling north and because of the curve at the crossing the trainmen apparently knew nothing of the accident. It did not stop but local officers learned the number was 107.

The remains were removed to the Albaugh funeral home, and then to the E. T. Snyder funeral home in Mt. Sterling. Mr. Snyder is a nephew.

Native of Fairfield-co

Miss Will had been a resident of the Home and Hospital for 10 years and observed her 82 birthday Jan. 6. She was born in 1854 in Hocking-twp., Fairfield-co, the daughter of Robert Will, formerly of Scotland, and Sarah Nye, a

Makes Opera Debut

LADY LUCK and illness of Richard Crooks, opera singer, combined to give Joseph Bentonelli, above, 33-year-old Oklahoma tenor, a chance with the Metropolitan Opera company in New York. Bentonelli, who made his debut in "Manon," had been given an audition only a week previously. Bentonelli now has a contract to sing in several other presentations during the season. His name—originally Benton in Oklahoma—became Bentonelli when he sang in Italy.

Raskob, Dupont Accused By U. S.

ANSWERS to charge of the internal revenue bureau in Washington that they connived to effect fictitious stock sale losses in an effort to reduce income tax liabilities were prepared by John J. Raskob, left, and Pierre S. duPont, heavy backers of the anti-New Deal American Liberty league, following the lodging of the formal accusation. The government charged duPont with "fictitious" stock losses of $1,946,048, and asserted that $54,169 was unreported as income. For the year in question, 1929, the government reported that duPont deducted an "alleged loss" of $8,120,645 while Raskob sought to subtract $4,375,523. Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, has had an appeal pending for some years. The government alleged that duPont and Raskob entered into an agreement to establish "fictitious losses."

INSURANCE MAN 'ROXY', FAMOUS, BALKS ROBBERY FIGURE, IS DEAD

Homer Spangler, W. Mill-St.,
Hit on Head Saturday Night

Homer Spangler, 144 W. Mill-st., agent for the Prudential Insurance Co., was nursing a severe bump on the head Monday resulting from an attempted robbery at his home Saturday night.

A thug, hiding on a dark rear porch, struck Mr. Spangler on the head with either his fist or some hard instrument as he was closing his cellar door after bringing a bucket of coal from the basement.

Mr. Spangler reported the blow dazed him but he remembered grabbing the trouser leg of the man as he fell. His act apparently surprised the thug and he started off the porch dragging Mr. Spangler with him. The victim said he remembered hearing a ripping noise and believed he tore the robber's trouser leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Spangler had returned to their home from uptown about 11:30 p. m. As was his usual custom, he went to the cellar for a bucket of coal.

Mr. Spangler had approximately $100 in his pockets in insurance collections.

He was unable to describe his assailant explaining it was dark and he was partially dazed by the blow.

CLASS ENTERTAINS

The Sophomore class presented the program during the assembly meeting of the high school Monday morning.

It consisted of three vocal solos. Miss Dorothy Walters sang "Moon Over Miami"; Bob Fickardt, "My Boots and Saddle," and Louise Helwagen, "Alone."

Esther Jones played a saxophone number, "Red Sails in the Sunset," and Phillip Moore, Martin Walters, and Jimmy Moffitt entertained with their marionette show, "The Elves and Shoemakers."

DEATH REPORT UNTRUE

A report, current Monday that former Judge Charles Dresbach had died at the home of his son, James, in Detroit, is without foundation. The Herald learned through telephone conversation with the son's office.

Mr. Dresbach is visiting his son.

FIREMEN CALLED

An auto motor, smoking from a short circuit, resulted in the local fire department being called to E. Main-st near the Eagles lodge Saturday night. The damage was small and the trouble was corrected before firemen arrived.

James Wickenseimer Becomes
Civil Service Commission
Member

Charles O. Caskey, 722 N. Court-st, Democrat, and J. F. Mavis, 647 Mound-st, Republican, assumed office Monday as safety and service directors, respectively.

Mr. Caskey, operator of a restaurant on S. Washington-st, replaces L. T. Shaner appointed under W. B. Cady Mr. Caskey was not present at the city building Monday morning when Mayor W. J. Graham announced his appointments. He was suffering a severe cold, and had an appointment with a physician.

In a telephone conversation he announced he hoped to be in his office Tuesday. "I can see no changes in either the Police or Fire departments at the present time," he told The Herald.

Former Stowboard Employee

Mr. Mavis succeeds W. M. Justus, who returned to his home Sunday from University hospital, Columbus, where he recently underwent an operation. Mr. Mavis is a former employee of the strawboard, starting work there in 1899 and leaving in 1934. From 1911 to 1934 he served as straw buyer. He also served one year as superintendent of Forest cemetery.

The office of service director pays $1,100 per year and that of safety director $600. Both of the men named are former school mates of Mayor Graham at old Everts high building.

Mr. Mavis announced one change in his department. David Courtwright, Democrat, son of Dr. D. V. Courtwright, was named city engineer replacing Harry Griner. This position is operated on a part-time basis.

Wickenseimer Named

Mayor Graham announced the appointment of James Wickenseimer, grocer, a Republican as a member of the civil service commission. Mr. Wickenseimer succeeds A. J. Lyle, who was appointed Mr. Cady to fill the unexpired term of W. H. Cook, now living in Mt. Sterling. The term expired Jan. 1. Mr. Wickenseimer serves for six years.

All trustees of the Library board whose terms expired Jan. 1, were reappointed by Mr. Graham to serve four year terms. Those renamed are: Mrs. Clark Will, Republican, Lawrence E. Goeller and J. W. Johnson, Democrats.

N. E. Reichelderfer, executive vice president of the Circleville Savings and Banking Co., was named a trustee of the sinking fund and tax commission, succeeding George G. Adkins Democrat, whose term expired Jan. 1. Mr. Reichelderfer is a Democrat. He will serve four years.

Jackson on Health Board
Dr. H. D. Jackson, Republican, was appointed a member of the city Board of Health succeeding Dr. E. S. Shane. The term is five years.

34 SAILORS LOST AS 'IOWA' SINKS; GALE HALTS AID

Other Ships Endangered By Storms in Pacific Along Shores of Oregon

ASTORIA, Ore., Jan. 13.—(UP)—Coast guardsmen patrolled the sands lining the mouth of the Columbia river today seeking the bodies of 29 of the 34 sailors drowned when the S. S. Iowa sank on Peacock spit, dreaded "graveyard of ships."

A change in the wind and the tide was expected to wash ashore most of the bodies. The guardsmen, who were prevented by high seas and a 80-mile gale from reaching the Iowa as she sank slowly in the sandy spit yesterday, spread their patrol over a 28-mile front abutting the scene of so similar tragedies since the Columbia river was opened to navigation.

Watches on the Washington side of the river could see a slender foremast bobbing above the waves, all that remained visible of the 5,724-ton States Steamship company freighter which wind and wave and sand broke to pieces in incredibly short time.

Bailed By Winds Rescuers were held back by the gale which sent the Iowa to her doom. The wind knocked down the breeches buoy ropes fired by coast guard boats which approached the scene and the waves prevented boats from coming close enough to board the wreck.

The Iowa was a victim of a sudden storm which produced a 90-mile an hour wind at the mouth of the river early Sunday.

When Capt. Edgar L. Yates, veteran skipper, took out the freighter from Portland Saturday night, the weather was normal. There was rain and some wind but nothing to presage the tragedy that was to follow.

The wind literally picked up the 416-foot freighter like a feather and tossed it on to the dreaded spit. Maritime authorities were investigating reports that Yates neglected to secure a pilot to take him over the river bar. But it was believed that with or without a pilot the Iowa could not have avoided the sands which pulled her to her death.

Frank Caldwell, radio operator, sent out a feeble S. O. S. at 3:49 a. m. It was the last call from the freighter.

The coast guard cutter Onandaga answered from Astoria but the storm drove her back time and again and it was six hours later that she finally approached the scene.

Commander R. S. Patch brought the 1,000-ton Onandaga within 1,500 yards of the Iowa, close enough for him to observe through glasses that there was no living man aboard.

Watches Ship Wrecked

As Commander Patch attempted to maneuver closer, a towering wave smashed two lifeboats on the cutter and swept away the stacks and bridge of the Iowa.

Before patch turned the Onan-daga's back toward the Columbia, only the foremost of the Iowa remained above the waves.

A short time later Captain Lars Bjelland, commander of the Point Adams motor lifeboat, reached the wreck and circled it several times. He, too, reported no life aboard.

Bjelland's boat picked up the wave-battered bodies of two seamen, their arms broken, about 500 yards inshore from the wreck. Three small guard boats barely made it back into the river, each craft leaking where the waves had opened seams, and the 18 guardsmen shaken and bruised.

The Onandaga itself had two life boats stove in, a boat davit twisted, ventilator atop the cabin bashed in by a wave, and the training mechanism or a three-inch gun ruined.

Commander Patch said the 34 men aboard the Iowa "never had a chance to escape death."

"I am sorry we couldn't save at least some of them, but it was impossible," he said. "We saw no sign of life aboard."

Two other ships were endangered yesterday by the gales which blew eastward across the Pacific, bringing a storm which drenched the Pacific coast with rain, piled up a snow blanket in the mountains, and caused a number of deaths from traffic accidents and snow slides.

Rudder Is Lost

The Canadian freighter, Rocheli, proceeding south from British Columbia, lost her rudder when 10 miles off the coast of southern Oregon. Waves kept the coast guard cutter Canokia from going to her rescue from Eureka, Calif. The Rocheli crew fixed a temporary rudder and continued slowly along the coast. It was not believed in danger.

The S. S. Romulus also lost her rudder 15 miles off Coos bay, Ore. The freighters Lumberman and Castleman were standing by to assist her if necessary.

Reports a small schooner had broken up near the wreck of the Iowa were discounted.

The Iowa was bound from Portland for New York via San Francisco with a cargo of lumber and flour.

Airplanes Compete With Athletes For Favor of 1936 College Co-Ed

Flying Clubs for Girl Students Becoming Popular

COLUMBUS, O.—Betty Co-Ed has gone air-minded! In colleges throughout the country bright young things are donning helmets and flying suits and taking to the air in a big way.

Since the day in 1910 when Harvard college students held the first air meet in this country, there have been flying clubs in men's colleges and universities. But it is only recently that women have become active members in these clubs.

Smith college has one of the most enthusiastic groups of feminine flying students in the country. Lake Erie College for Women at Painesville, O., is the most recent to petition the National Intercollegiate Flying club for recognition.

Co-Eds Hunt Airport

And if anyone doubts that they aren't taking it seriously, just listen to what one of the fair flyers has to say about the situation.

Joan Younger of the Ohio State University Flying club, organized in November, thinks nothing can compare with flying, as a sport and as a vocation:

"I've never had anything interest me so much before in my life. I can't wait until I get my license and can start looking for a job. I wish they'd let women fly the mails."

Every free hour the girl flyers spend at the airport looking over planes in the hangars, "talking shop" and watching their friends make good—or bad—landings. Then they go up for their lesson and triumphantly come down to record some more time in their log books.

Must Fly 50 Hours

Fifty hours may not be so long a time in an ordinary lifetime, but it's a century in the life of an aspiring aviatrix. Fifty hours of flying time is the requirement for a private or limited commercial license.

Some of the colleges help the flyers along with lectures on aerodynamics and airplane construction. And co-eds who never have been nearer a motor than the driver's seat of an automobile take great joy in exploring the mysteries of airplane motors and fuselages. Instead of talking about dances, these air-minded young women now chat in aeronautical terms about air commerce regulations.

"Incomparable"

Ida Gaver of Columbus, whose brother is vice president of the National Intercollegiate Flying club and owns his own plane, is well on her way to a private pilot's license.

"It's too bad everyone can't have the opportunity to learn to fly, because there isn't anything that can compare to it. It's something I never intend to give up," Miss Gaver firmly announces.

Dorothy Fernberger of Cleveland, another flying aspirant, says: "There's no doubt that it is the coming method of transportation. I'm glad I got in at the beginning and I only hope there are more jobs open to women when I get my license."

FARM LEADERS CONFER ON PLAN

Heads of Three Organizations to Approve New Set-Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(UP)—Farm organizations and the administration, in substantial agreement upon a farm program, rushed preparation today of substitute AAA legislation to be proposed to congress.

New Deal attorneys drafted proposals for a soil conservation program while heads of three principal farm organizations—the National Grange, the American Farm Bureau federation and the National Farm Cooperative council—met to formally approve the plans.

On only one point did there appear a potentially serious rift between farm organizations and the administration. Strong farm opposition developed to President Roosevelt's request that congress repeal an act setting aside 30 per cent of customs collections for agricultural aids.

It was estimated the act, passed by congress in the closing days of the 1935 session, would provide $90,000,000 annually for farm aid. In his budget message, transmitted to congress the same day that the supreme court invalidated AAA, Mr. Roosevelt termed the customs act "unwise", and requested that it be repealed.

In approving a new crop production control program based on soil conservation, the 100 farm leaders, here to discuss substitutes for AAA, requested the 30 per cent provision be retained and, if possible, strengthened in its application. Proponents of the 30 per cent provision, it was learned, would have it used to make export bounty payments.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

Pernicious Anemia Talk Outdated by Treatment

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D. "WOULD YOU, at an early date, write an article on pernicious anemia? Is there a cure for it?" writes A. V., of Urbana, Ill.

Fifteen or more years ago, when we all came back from the war—camp or front, as the case might be—there was a great deal of discussion of a condition called "pernicious anemia". Why there should have been, I do not know; perhaps because we hadn't seen any of the disease in the army—our patients were too young—and we were tired of the endless discussions about influenza, were glad to change the subject and think about the chronic diseases of middle-aged people.

I remember the discussions about treatment—one person advocating transfusion, the other condemning it, the use of hydrochloric acid, and arsenic, and removal of the spleen. Well, those discussions are all over now, quite out of date. There is no discussion of pernicious anemia any more. In fact, there is no pernicious anemia. A completely successful treatment came along about ten years ago and took the "pernicious" out of the name. In fact, if the treatment is faithfully carried out it takes the "anemia" out, too.

Hears Report Last fall I heard the report of a physician who has charge of a large hospital devoted to these cases. He told of the condition of 500 people who had been on the liver treatment for from five to ten years. Most of them were entirely well; some of them had died, but of automobile accidents, or heart failure, or pneumonia, or old age—not of the disease itself, which 15 years ago we considered inevitably fatal. Now this is quite a remarkable record. As short a time as ten years ago a patient who had pernicious anemia went to the doctor, and the doctor knew that in spite of any treatment he could apply that patient would, in all probability, be dead in four years. Now the patient can be assured that if a simple, harmless treatment, entirely free from trouble, someness or discomfort, is carried out, that death will be postponed indefinitely. These things were well publicized ten years ago, when this treatment was first announced. From my reader's question, as put at the head of this article, it is evident that a whole generation has grown into the pernicious anemia zone without knowing it. It was of no interest to them ten years ago because they were not at the dangerous age. Anemia of this type appears usually in the middle-age period. It can be suspected most readily in a person who has "spells" (lasting several weeks or months) of weakness, with a peculiar waxy color of the skin, and frequently no loss of weight. The principles of treatment will be discussed tomorrow.

RED CROSS MAY WITHDRAW HELP FROM WAR AREA

Dr. Junod Demands Italy Pledge Hospitals Will Not Be Bombed

LONDON, Jan. 12. (UP)—Dr. Marcel Junod, International Red Cross delegate, announced today that he would recommend withdrawal of all Red Cross units from Ethiopia unless Italy definitely promised not to bomb them, the Exchange Telegraph Addis Ababa correspondent reported.

Just returned from an investigation of the bombing of the Swedish Red Cross Hospital in the Dodo area, Dr. Junod said, according to the correspondent.

"There is no doubt that the bombing was deliberate."

Dr. Junod, delegate in Ethiopia of the International Red Cross, said he would make his conditional recommendation for withdrawal to Red Cross headquarters at Geneva.

"Survivors of the Swedish hospital," Dr. Junod was quoted as saying, "are living in terror of their lives at Muggell (west of the former position near Dolo). Fearing another bombing, members of the unit spend their days in the surrounding forest, treating the wounded who arrive daily from the southern front. The population of the town evacuate it in the day time. The Swedish Red Cross flag is not shown any more."

FAIRFIELD CORONER DIES

LANCASTER, Jan. 13.—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for James L. "Gyp" Walt, 49, Fairfield-co coroner, who died in Lancaster hospital following a two weeks' illness of pneumonia.

Walt was prominent in athletic circles, having played on local football and basketball teams. He also served as an official for many years. He was completing his second two-year term as coroner.

SENATE PROBES IN BONUS BILL

Question of Inflation in Minds of Harrison, Aides

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(UP)—Senate leaders worked quietly but swiftly today to frame a compromise soldiers' bonus bill aimed at heading off attempts to use the bonus as a vehicle for inflation.

Details of a Senate bill probably will be announced today. Chairman Pat Harrison of the Senate finance committee, an administration spokesman, said in calling a meeting of his committee to begin consideration of the bonus issue.

The House, which passed the "united front" bill 356 to 59 Friday, did not provide a method of payment. House inflation leaders hoped to settle eventually on issuance of new currency.

In order to shut off adoption of a Greenback bonus bill, Senate leaders began working out a compromise calling for use of bonds which could be cashed in whole or in part. It was believed that this would ease the drain on the treasury and avoid drastic currency expansion.

KINGSTON

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carrie Holderman.

Kingston.—The Chapter Evangelical Education for Women of South America from the study book "Women Under the Southern Cross" was given by Mrs. Donald Kempton in a charming manner. Stewardship was discussed by Mrs. N. J. Ford stressing possessions, Service and Prayer. The Little Republic of South America was discussed by Mrs. Norman Pyle. "The Land of Pampas" discussed by Miss Umstead. The mystery box questions were in charge of Mrs. Kempton in the place of Mrs. George DeLong, who is ill.

Kingston.—The next meeting will be held on the regular date which will be February 6 with Mrs. W. R. Sunderland and Mrs. H. B. Shannon for hostess. The meeting closed by all repeating the usual missionary benediction. Miss Katherine L. Brundige was a visitor. The hostesses served home-made cakes and coffee and tea.

Kingston.—Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Workman of Lucasville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Walters and daughter Fearnie on Sunday.

Kingston.—The Social Circle of the Evangelical Reform church will hold its regular meeting on Thursday afternoon, January 16 at the home of Mrs. Roger Ross with Mrs. Orland Ross and Mrs. Paul Ross and Mrs. George Evans assistant hostesses. A splendid program is being arranged and a good attendance is urged.

Kingston.—Miss Ettowell Shannon left on Friday for her home in Los Angeles, California after a pleasant visit during the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Shannon.

Kingston.—The Flying Eagle Patrol of local scout troop No. 5 staged a fine twenty-minute program on Saturday evening in the scout room. Thirty-eight members and guests were present. Scouts in the troop are laboring hard to be one of the 20 members to be privileged to take the bus trip to Washington D. C. in June. This trip will surely be worth working for as it will be one of the finest projects to be accomplished during the year. The committee added to the scout room a question box in which all members are privileged to place all questions which they would like answered at the meetings.

Kingston.—Plans are being made for five leaders of the troop to usher at the basketball game to be played by Ohio State University on Saturday, Jan. 18. Assistant Scout Master, Dorah Morris will announce at the scout meeting January 11, plans for a trip to the Ohio penitentiary, in the latter part of April. A talk will be given by an out of town speaker on "Safety Driving" on January 21. The proceeds will go toward the fund for the trip to Washington D. C.

Kingston.—Messrs. Will D. Wood, William Prindiff, Dorah Morris and Loring Hill attended the basketball game between Ohio State and Purdue University at Columbus on Monday evening.

WILLIAMSPORT

Mrs. Belle Bennett of Circleville spent a part of this week with Mrs. Mollie Anderson.

Williamsport.—Those attending the Benefit Bridge Party of the Sew and So club at Atlanta Wednesday afternoon were Mrs. Lee Luellen, Mrs. George Lemay, Mrs. Kenneth List, Mrs. S. B. Metzger, Mrs. Harry McGhee, Mrs. Edna H. Newhouse, Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Fannie Marcy, Mrs. F. B. Kirby, Mrs. W. D. Helskell, Mrs. T. B. Gephart, Mrs. John W. Smith and Mrs. Russell McDill. More than sixty ladies were present to enjoy the occasion.

Williamsport.—Harry McGhee left Saturday for Rochester, Minn. where he will undergo treatment at the Mayo clinic.

Williamsport.—Mrs. T. B. Gephart entertained a small party of friends to luncheon, Friday.

Williamsport.—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fox have moved to Atlanta, where Mr. Fox will have charge of the Hughes I. G. A. grocery.

Williamsport.—Mrs. George Hamman Jr. was hostess to the Brown's Chapel Missionary society Thursday afternoon.

The January meeting of the local W. C. T. U. will be held Thursday afternoon Jan. 16 at the home of Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker.

SCHOOL DEBATE TEAM IN ACTION

Negative Team to Meet Amanda Tuesday

"Resolved that the several states should enact legislation providing for a system of complete medical care at public expense" is the subject of the series of interscholastic debates in which Circleville high school will participate this year. Local school authorities had nothing to do with the choosing of the subject, it being chosen by the state committee of the Ohio High School Debating league to be debated this year by high schools through the entire state.

Circleville high school makes its debut in the Ohio State Debating League Tuesday, when the local negative team travels to Amanda to engage Amanda high school.

The negative team is comprised of Mary Elizabeth Groce, John Griffith with Hilaire Haacker as alternate.

No judge has been definitely selected but the rival coaches have agreed upon a Capital University faculty member or a prominent lawyer from Lancaster.

The debate will be held in the Amanda high school at 8 p. m.

The team will make its appearance Jan. 20 in the local school when it debates North high of Columbus. Ann Vierebome and George Rader with Thelma Piper will carry the colors of the Red and Black on the affirmative team.

Robert Jewett, debate coach, has drilled both teams strenuously during the past few weeks on the question. The alternates on the local team deserve much credit for gathering and arranging the material for the talks which are to be presented.

The complete schedule is as follows:

Amanda, negative, there, Jan. 14.
North high, affirmative, here, Jan. 20.
Washington C. H. affirmative, there, Jan. 27.
West high, negative, there, Feb. 10.
Newark, affirmative, there, Feb. 17.

CHURCH ENJOYS LARGE SERVICE FOR REVIVAL

Dr. T. C. Harper, pastor of the United Brethren church, reports that Sunday was an outstanding day at his church where a revival has been in progress for one week with Rev. Dewey Whitwell of Nashville, Tenn., as the evangelist. The evangelist spoke to the young people of the church at the Sunday School hour.

At the morning worship service the evangelist spoke on the "Tithe." This was an impressive message. The evangelist emphasized that the Bible recognized only one way of financing the church and that is with the tithes and offerings. He stated that we have manufactured a lot of questionable and unscriptural schemes of financing our churches and that accounts for a lot of the failures that are marked up against them.

At the evening hour of worship, Prof. Troy Beldon directed the large choir. The church was well filled to hear the evangelist discuss his topic, "The Latest News from Hell." Tonight will be "Women's Night." The men will sing for the women. The subject will be, "Prodigal Parents."

YOUTH NAMED DESERTER

Elwood Moore, 19, of Matty, Ky., was arrested by the sheriff's department Saturday afternoon for Lawrence-co, Ky., authorities on a warrant charging desertion. Officers were told the youth left a wife and two children. Kentucky authorities returned him to that state Sunday morning.

AGE IN THE WHITE HOUSE

ONE of the interesting paradoxes of the present political situation is the fact that the so-called youth movement in the Republican Party has as its leader one who, if nominated next summer, will be the oldest man chosen as a presidential candidate in the country's history.

It has not been customary to associate Senator Borah with old age. Tall, erect, strong, and active physically, alert mentally and the intellectual superior of most of his colleagues, he might well pass as a symbol of eternal youth.

Perhaps this disposition to view him as a sort of an ageless statesman is due primarily to the fact that he is young in spirit and his political ideals have never become "set."

Nevertheless, there are practical difficulties involved in the circumstance that Senator Borah will be seventy-one next June. Conceding that his qualifications are not now impaired by the ravages of years, how will he bear up under the strain of responsibility and labor if elected, and will he be as robust at seventy-five as he is now?

Most of our presidential candidates have been comparatively young men. Theodore Roosevelt succeeded McKinley in the presidency at forty-two and was elected in his own right at forty-four. Grant, Cleveland, Pierce, Polk and Garfield were in the white house before they had reached the fifty mark. The oldest was William Henry Harrison, who was nominated and elected at the age of sixty-seven and only eight have been over sixty.

As the voting returns roll in in the Michigan congressional election, we suspect some of the victor's constituents are already demanding their $200 a month.

But why should we expect more from the Philippines in this matter of successful self-government than we do from the rest of the nations that are struggling along, hitting on two cylinders?

Funny humans! Statesmen trying to end warfare; schools teaching youngsters to admire great warriors.

Why does Junior tell lies? He ought to know it won't work when he catches you at it.

How to abolish war? Well, except when they are hunting food, few animals are dangerous unless you scare them.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

Washington probably is better acquainted with J. P. Morgan than any other city.

The old magnate has made two appearances here, as a witness before senatorial investigating committee. As such, it is impossible for him to keep ordinary folk from "contacting" him at fairly short range.

I am not so sure that he objects to it, either. It is his bodyguard that keeps the commonality at a distance. Maybe he would be glad to receive an occasional visitor, but it is difficult to run the gauntlet of his henchmen. At his hotel, even in Washington (he and his staff occupy about 40 rooms when he comes here), he is more inaccessible than royalty. I have no doubt he is equally so in New York, London or elsewhere. But the public (as much of it as can squeeze in) can't be kept out of a congressional committee room. That's where the great man has to mix with his fellow human beings at close quarters—extremely close quarters; the size of the crowds he draws is restricted only by the amount of space available to pack them into.

NEW DEALERS BUSILY CHARTING

CAMPAIGN TO DEFEAT SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON—The week since the momentous AAA decision has been one of sphinx-like silence for the New Dealers. But they have not been idle.

Behind the scenes they have been busy charting a campaign against the Supreme Court.

There is one opinion on which the New Dealers are completely unanimous, from the President down—namely, that if they do not defeat the Supreme Court, the Supreme Court will defeat them.

The resultant strategy they have evolved, so far, takes the following lines:

1. Sit tight until the Court has aroused public opinion by throwing out more New Deal projects.
2. Later, move either to grant police powers to and increase the general welfare powers of Congress by amending the Constitution; or, on the other hand, to abridge the power of the Supreme Court. So far the latter looks easier.
3. Meanwhile, stage an educational campaign on the battles between Congress and the Court during the entire history of the United States.

Considerable work already has been done on No. 3. As a result, the public may hear something about the proposal of James Madison to enable over-ruling a veto of the Court by a three-fourths vote of Congress.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Also the public may hear much of the Dred Scott Decision, may enjoy the unique spectacle of a Democratic president hurling into the teeth of the Republican Party the words of that party's most famous president—Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln, commenting on the decision, said the Supreme Court had got the doctrine of popular sovereignty down "as thin as homophathic soup that was made by boiling the shadow of a pigeon that had starved to death."

Other powerful arguments made by Lincoln in opposition to the Supreme Court have not escaped the boys who have been researching for the President, especially where Lincoln said, "It is not resistance, it is not factious, it is not even disrespectful to treat it (the decision) as not having yet established a settled doctrine for the country."

There is just one flaw in bringing up the Dred Scott case. This is the fact that Chief Justice Taney, who handed down the decision which helped precipitate the Civil War, was appointed by the Democratic President Whom Roosevelt paid $50 to honor at the Jackson Day Dinner last week.

Roger Brooke Taney was a Maryland lawyer and slave-holder who first won fame by defending John Gooding, notorious Baltimore slave snatcher, caught smuggling 290 Africans up the Chesapeake. Later President Jackson made Taney Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

something of an ogre—fierce to reporters and a camera-smasher. In Washington, both times, he has been perfectly angelic.

With news photographers his patience has been wonderful. Reporters have had nothing to complain of. He hasn't told them much, but he has been the personification of geniality.

He is a jolly-looking old 250-pounder, nearing 70.

When he was in the capital a year or two ago, before the senate's banking and currency committee, I was so astonished at his amiability, in contrast with stories I had heard, of the violence of his temper, that I ventured to ask him what the explanation was.

He chuckled and jerked a thumb in the direction of John W. Davis, chief counsel for Morgan and Co. "He told me," he said, "that this was one of the times it would pay me to be on my good behavior."

FICTIONAL—AND REAL

I believe, however, that accounts of the junior "J. P.'s" ferocity always were fictional.

When in Washington recently, as a senatorial neutrality committee witness, he was as placatory as when the banking and cur-

CHAPTER 43

JANET WALKED again to the window and pulled the curtains closer together. Then she went to the door, opened that, faced around and closed it softly. Her face wore an expression of grim seriousness.

When she sat down opposite me at the table and clasped her hands on the walnut surface, I noticed that two of her lovely nails were bitten down to the quick.

"No one can hear us, can they?" I shook my head. The walls of the library are very thick, doubly thick with the rows of Morton's books which I somehow had managed to keep.

The little jade dagger was near her clasped hands.

"It's about my brother, Mrs. Penny. You didn't know I had a brother, did you? I've been wanting to tell you but I couldn't. I couldn't tell anyone here. He's four years older than I am, and a darling."

A sob came to her throat, and a tear rolled down one cheek.

"And he didn't do what they thought he did—he didn't because he told me he didn't and I'd believe Jerry before anyone else in the world." Another tear fell, and another, but she made no effort to wipe them away.

"Who are 'they,' Janet? And what was your brother supposed to have done?"

"The police in Seattle. Jerry worked in a bank there, and I worked for a lawyer. Same kind of work I do now. We had been alone since our father died five years before. We don't even remember our mother—I guess that's why we've always been so close. I know I told you I came from New York, but I didn't."

"I've been there, and I know the city, so I said I'd worked and lived there. Mr. Brown thinks I worked for Mr. Hulbert in New York. I didn't. Mr. Hulbert was a friend of my father's, and when I wanted to get away from Seattle, I wrote and asked him if he would say I had worked for him. He was glad to. I didn't go to New York. I came here—I don't know why, except that I didn't know a soul in town, and I did in New York and Chicago."

She paused and again I asked her what her brother had done. She needed prompting.

"Jerry was teller in a bank in Seattle," she went on, at last. "He was young for the responsibility, but we thought he had a great future. One day, just six months ago, his accounts were found $50,000 short."

"Jerry didn't even know about it, because whoever had meddled with them had done a good job of covering up. Well, Jerry was arrested. Mrs. Penny, and he was as surprised as anyone. He was flabbergasted."

He never stole a dime from anybody in his life, and he was accused of taking $50,000! The police took him to jail and he was indicted by the grand jury. It was all done so quickly I could hardly get my bearings.

"They let me see him once in a while, and he told me repeatedly, every time I saw him, that he hadn't taken the money. But he couldn't get anyone else to believe him. Even the lawyer I was working for said the case was pretty hopeless. He wouldn't touch it. I finally got somebody—but before the trial, Jerry escaped. He'd told me how he was going to make a try for it—because he was framed and if he came to trial he wouldn't have a chance. He gave me an address to write to if he escaped, and the name he would use. I begged him not to, but I could see how he felt about it. The terrible disgrace and the injustice of being sent to prison for a crime he never committed."

"He got away and there was a great hue and cry. Everybody thought he was more guilty than ever, just as I had told him. At first the police came to me, thinking I had helped him escape. I tried to tell them that I hadn't, but of course they wouldn't believe me. They watched me every minute. Opened my mail, tapped my telephone. Mr. Martin, the man I worked for, finally let me go because of their annoyance."

"They were sure I'd lead them to Jerry, because they knew how close we were and how much we loved each other. We always went every place together in Seattle. I wrote Jerry under the name he had given me and the address, and told him not to write to me under any circumstances. That I had to manage things differently. You probably didn't hear much about the search for Jerry here, because you're so far away, but in the northwest it was a terrible man-hunt. You'd think Jerry had murdered a dozen people in cold blood."

"I knew I couldn't stay in Seattle any longer, and keep in touch with my brother, so I left town. I had to plan carefully—I had a little money left over from father's estate—$500, and with the aid of some friends I got away from the office where I was following me. Even my friends didn't know where I planned to go. I've never written to them since. I decided not to change my name—it really is Janet Bell—but I wanted to lose myself for a while so I could see how Jerry was getting along. I got away from the office, I was afraid he might need money."

"I got a job almost as soon as I landed here with references from Mr. Hulbert in New York. And I came here to live on Mr. Brown's

Family Group Enjoys Birthday Celebration

Willis Neff Honored
On Seventy-Second Anniversary

A family group gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Dewey, S. Court-st., Sunday to honor Mrs. Dewey's father, Willis Neff of this city and Buckeye lake, on his seventy-second birthday anniversary.

Mr. Neff received many gifts from his children and their families. Thirty-four were in the group enjoying the dinner at noon and the delightful social afternoon.

Included in the group were Mr. and Mrs. Neff and Miss Lena Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Carpenter and son, Jimmy, this city; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Neff and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Courtright, Circleville; Mrs. Hazel Rader and daughter, Letitia, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neff and daughters, Margie and Mary Ann, and sons, George, Hugh, and Charles, Jackson; W. T. Crites, Stoutsville; Omer Neff and son, Bobby, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Good, and Harry Neff and daughters, Phyllis and Patricia and sons, Harry Jr. and Richard, and Marilyn Hennessy of Grove City, and Mr. and Mrs. Dewey and sons, Eugene and Thomas.

To Leave for Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adkins, S. Court-st., plan to leave Wednesday or Thursday for Florida. They will drive through for a month to six weeks' stay visiting places of interest in the southern state.

Sunday evening, they were dinner guests of Mr. Adkins brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morris in Columbus.

Club Federation

Women from every part of the union and from several foreign countries will gather in Washington, D. C., this week for the mid-winter meeting of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, president, and the chairmen of the nine departments of work, will outline their programs for the coming three years. "Education for Living," will be emphasized in program outlines and in the addresses which will be given by nationally known women and men.

Takes Part in 'Play Day'

Friends of Miss Marie Briner, W. Main-st., a student at Capital University, Columbus, will be interested in her participation in an event at the Columbus college Saturday that may become a widespread practice among universities.

Women students of the physical education departments of Denison and Capital universities assembled on the Capital campus for the first annual "Play Day" between the two schools.

The program consisted of games, deck tennis, volley ball, a luncheon, and a social hour at which the two deans of women participated. Seventy-seven co-eds attended this initial affair.

Miss Briner was a member of the Capital volley ball team. She is a freshman in the liberal arts college.

Alumni Party

One hundred and twenty-five alumni of the Scioto-twp school and their friends enjoyed the annual dance and card party of the Alumni association Saturday evening in the school auditorium at Commercial Point.

William Durrett, president of the association, was general chairman and responsible for the success of the affair.

Guy Thomas and his orchestra from Westerville furnished the music for dancing from 8:30 to 12 o'clock.

A number of the group spent the evening in bridge or euchre for which prizes were awarded high score winners.

They were Mrs. O. M. Beckett, Mrs. Lawrence Kegg, Mrs. Fred Lamb, Guy Gulick, Kensil Burkhead and Lawrence Kegg in bridge; Mrs. Florence Skinner, Mrs. Max Grey, Mrs. Orren Lawless, William Beavers, Everett Beavers, and Max Grey, euchre. The association plans to have another social affair Friday, Feb. 28.

SCHOOL BOARDS NAME OFFICIALS

Stanley Glick Only Member of Circleville-Twp Board

Stanley Glick, Circleville Rt. 3, is the Circleville-twp school board at present. Three members have handed in their resignations and the fourth, Warren Harmon, recently moved into the city and is not eligible to serve.

Those who resigned are George Marion, Robert Liston and John Bell. All have served on the board a number of years. Mr. Bell had two years yet to serve while the two others were re-elected at the last election with their names written in on the ballots. It was reported the men were "just tired" of serving.

Mr. Glick has the authority to appoint the other members of the board, school officials believe.

VOLUME'S ABOUT LADIES TELL OF SOCIETY HISTORY

A Scotch lady of quality, a charming Miss from New England, and a frontier lady of the gold rush days in California, have added, materially, to an understanding of the social life and customs of earlier days in America, through three books which are now owned by our local library.

The "Journal of a Lady of Quality" is the story of a Scotch woman and her travels from 1774 to 1776, and is printed from her manuscript diary, preserved, and happened upon, in the British Museum. As a narrative, the journal falls into four parts, dealing first with the voyage from Scotland to the West Indies; second, experiences on the islands and the journey by water from St. Kitts to the Cape Fear river; third, life in the Carolina colony just before the War of Independence, and, finally, the last part, dealing with the experiences on the way back to Scotland. The editors have carefully checked the account with other existing records and, in their notes, show the accuracy of the author's observations.

"A Journey to Ohio in 1810" is the record kept by Margaret Dwight, a young girl, who, with a party of friends, left Connecticut for Ohio in the same year that saw the founding of Circleville. Traveling by wagon across Pennsylvania, over poor roads, and encountering many unforeseen hardships, stopping at primitive inns, or wherever night, or disaster, overtook them, this young lady of culture managed to chronicle her adventures, from day to day, with a rare sense of humor. On arriving at her destination, she sent the record, at her first opportunity, back to the cousin for whom she had written it. Carefully preserved by her relatives, it has recently been made available for wider reading by the press of Yale University.

"Frontier Lady: Recollections of the Gold Rush and Early California" by Sarah Royce, has a special value and distinction in its intimate account of a journey to California in the gold rush days, written years ago at the request of the author's son, Professor Josiah Royce. Against the experiences of the dangerous overland trek, and the difficulties of moving from one mining camp to another with a young family, stands forth the figure of a sensitive, educated woman, staunch in courage, loyal to her faith and her family, 'caught in a swirl of strange circumstances.'

The staff of the Circleville Public Library take pleasure in recommending these three books, whether read as history, biography, travel, or just as entertaining stories. Janet Schaw, Margaret Dwight and Sarah Royce are very real people, who little thought, when engaged in their pastime, that what they were writing would furnish information and entertainment so many years later.

Choose This Foresighted Pattern

Smart to now—and oh, so lovely for the coming coatless days of Spring and Summer! A frock like this latest afternoon model by Marian Martin will make you feel as fresh as the first robin's song. Make it up with a graceful elbow sleeve as pictured, a shorter puff sleeve, or with just an adorable little cap sleeve formed by extension of rounded yoke over shoulder. For a quaint, old-fashioned, new-fashioned effect, interpret the frock in paisley silk print as shown here. Or be gayly modern in one of the new flower of vegetable prints that come in silk, synthetic or cotton. This simple pattern is H9712. Size 12 to 20 and 30 to 40. Size 16 requires 4 yards 39 inch fabric.

CAC PREPARES TO TANGLE WITH CHILLICOTHE '5'

Big Taggart, Center, to Provide Difficult Job; Preliminary is at 7:30

The task of stopping John Taggart, big center, faces the Athletic club cage team as it meets the Chillicothe City club crew Tuesday evening on the local gymnasium.

Chillicothe writers declare that Taggart has been averaging between 15 and 25 points per game this year, and that no one, even big fletcher, 8-foot center of the House of David crew, effectively put the dampers on him.

The Chillicothe team last to the big House of David team by only three points, and put on a real exhibition of scoring.

Other stars include Ike Drummond, John Kern, L. Blankenship, Verlin Blankenship, and Hedrick, the latter a member of the Ohio State squad for three years. Reserves include Hunbail, Barnett, and Clab Smith, the latter an ex-Clarksburg athletic star.

The preliminary will bring together the C. A. C. reserves, led by Freddie Grant, against the Groveport Independents, a fast semi-pro team. The prelim will start at 7:30.

The Athletic club team has been practicing diligently and is in good condition for this game. The starting lineup has not been determined but it will be picked from Eby, Terhune, Walker, Hegele, Merriman, Gordon, and Purcell.

JIMMY HINES CAPTURES RICH OPEN TOURNAMENT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13—(UP)—Blond Jimmy Hines, Garden City, L. I., pro, today had assured himself a place among leading links stars of 1936 following his four stroke victory in the $5,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament.

Hines, virtually an unknown to western golfers until two weeks ago when he bagged the $3,000 Riverside, Calif., open had to fight off a bad case of nerves as well as the challenge of Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., before he won yesterday.

Starting his last 18 holes with an aggregate of 296, three strokes ahead of Picard, Hines continued his par-breaking golf until the 15th hole then he began to waver.

Only the fact that Picard also blew up on his last few holes kept Hines from losing his lead as he finished with a 289 and collected $1,500. Picard finished with a 284, tied with Jimmy Thomson of Ridgewood, N. J., for second place.

Keogan Praises N. Y. U. Team, and Criticizes Its Shortened Court

By GEORGE E. KEOGAN
Notre Dame Basketball Coach

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY, coached by Howard Cann, is off to another good start. Cann has the same team, with the exception of Gross that represented N. Y. U. last season and hasn't lost a game this season.

It is a smart well-coached team, that employs the old professional type of basketball. This consists of clever ball handling, cutting in and out until the proper set-up offers itself, and then the fast break for the basket and the shot. The team uses a tight man-for-man defense.

In Captain Bill Rubenstein and Milt Schulman, New York has two very clever men. Rubenstein is the guiding hand that runs the ball club—a very steady, heady ball player.

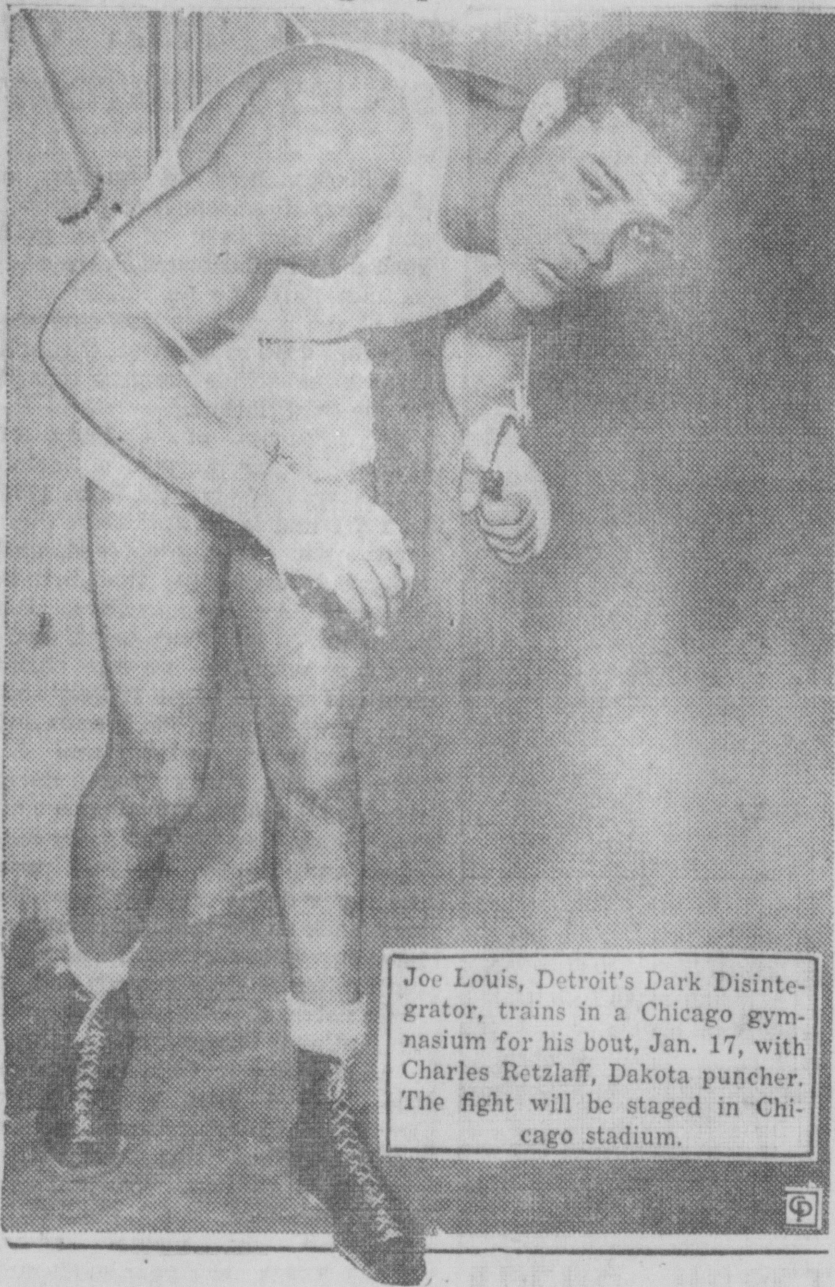

There has been much complaint about the games in Madison Square Garden. This is due to the fact that the floor has been shortened to about 82 feet and narrowed about six feet. A court 50 feet wide is narrow enough for play, and should not be cut down further. Also, 45 feet is limited enough space in which to maneuver your team, and should not be cut to 41 feet.

Last year the baskets in the Garden were transparent, and the rules state that they must be painted white.

Such things bother a team visiting there to a great extent. It seems the court could be arranged not to handicap teams who go there to play.

Notre Dame plays N. Y. U. at the Garden, Feb. 14.

12 FOXES KILLED LEADERS UPSET BY 800 IN DRIVE ON OHIO COURTS

Pickaway-Twp P. T. A. Clears $75 in Big Day's Event

Do Fox hunters eat? Just ask the ladies of the Pickaway-Twp Parent-Teachers' association.

Saturday noon they served approximately 500 hunters, used 100 pounds of hamburger, 60 pounds of baked beans, 125 pies, donated by residents and lost their count on the buns and cups of coffee. About 30 ladies assisted in preparing the lunch served in the garage at the school building. Two feed lines were used.

The fox drive will net the association about $75, members of the finance committee announced.

Twelve Reynards were killed and it is believed only two escaped through the lines. The drive was well planned and considered a huge success by township residents.

No regular roundup was held as it was impossible to hold back the crowd and form a circle. The drive ended on the Dunlap farm near Hayesville about noon. The crowd was estimated at 800. School buses were used to transport the drivers to the school building for the donation bidding and lunch.

Scores of Circleville residents took part in the event.

Wesleyan and Western Reserve Beaten; Forms Reversed

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—(UP)—A topsy-turvy basketball season in Ohio reached its dizzy heights over the week-end and today favored teams were faced with bitter to remain in the thick of championship races.

The two most surprising reversals saw Ohio Wesleyan, winner of the Buckeye conference championship for the past seasons, and Western Reserve, early season conqueror of Wesleyan and the prime favorite for the mythical state crown, fall.

Wesleyan, the top-heavy choice at the start of the campaign to make the Buckeye conference history by winning three straight court crowns, ran into a tartar in the University of Cincinnati and was defeated 26 to 24.

Cincinnati succeeded in bottling up Wesleyan's high scoring forward, Clovis Stark, and the Bishop's center, Parsons. The Wesleyan guards, Talos and Tavenner, scored 16 points between them, but couldn't swing the tide alone.

Bill Lloyd and Bill Raidt, two Cincinnati veterans were the main cogs in the Bearcat victory.

The Cincinnati triumph made the Buckeye conference a wide open one. Wesleyan was the only quintet given a title chance at the beginning of the campaign, but the entire complexion of the championship chase has changed now.

Baldwin-Wallace, the defending Ohio conference champion, was the quintet responsible for the fall of the strong Western Reserve five and the Bereans left no doubt as to their superiority by the 50 to 27 margin of their victory.

Baldwin-Wallace was beaten early in the season 28 to 18 by Ohio Wesleyan, a team which in turn fell 43 to 34 before Western Reserve. However, Saturday Coach Ray Wattis' two aces, Norman Schoen and Ward Powell, were "on" and Reserve's defense couldn't even partially halt them.

Schoen scored 22 points and Powell was responsible for 20.

BIERMAN TURNS POST $15,000 TULANE POST

CHICAGO, Jan. 13—(UP)—Unable to persuade Bernie Bierman to return to Tulane university as football coach, Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, director of athletics at the New Orleans school, today was en route to his home.

Bierman turned down an offer of $15,000 a year, deciding to remain at the University of Minnesota, where he has coached undefeated teams for the past three years. He was reported to be receiving $7,500 annually at Minnesota.

Smith conferred with Bierman and Frank McCormick, Minnesota's athletic director, over the week-end.

Bierman, a former Minnesota football star, coached at Tulane before returning to his alma mater three years ago.

Roses for Gauthier

George Gauthier, veteran Ohio Wesleyan athletic director, has sounded a keynote that deserves a lot of consideration—Talking to Cincinnati scribes after the Bishop cage team lost a tough 24-26 game Saturday evening, dropping the BAA leadership, Gauthier advocated expanding the Buckeye Athletic association for the good of all concerned—He wants St. Xavier, Western Reserve and Toledo admitted to the loop, and the janitor believes he is right—Either of these schools provide worthy competition, the league winner would receive wider recognition, schools in smaller towns such as Ohio U., Ohio Wesleyan, Miami, and Marshall would be given a chance to play in the larger cities and thus knock off more cash at the gate

Could Redeem Selves

Ohio State's cagers, it would seem, have dropped into their expected rut and will probably remain there—Football has been brought out of the doldrums in the last couple of years, why couldn't basketball be boosted a little—We wish Mr. Olson would take that Wisconsin job—Ohio is trying to cope with teams possessing much taller players, and finding it darned difficult—If the Bucks should beat Illinois tonight, we might write a different column for Tuesday's paper

WHITLINGER STILL LEADS

CHICAGO, Jan. 13—(UP)—Capt. Warren Whitlinger of Ohio State today maintained his lead among individual scorers in the Big Ten basketball race.

Whitlinger has scored 10 field and 15 free throws for a total of 37 points in three games. He scored nine points against Iowa Saturday night. A teammate, Thomas, is in second place with 24 points.

Bob Riegel, brilliant Illinois center, moved from ninth to third place with 23 points. His total is one more than that of Bill Haglow, Chicago, the scoring champion last year.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. A. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

CORRECT PLAY IS SIMPLE

MR. JAMES DURLIE, who sent in today's hand from Buffalo, N. Y., does not give the bidding, so I cannot explain how so generous a contract as 6-Spades, doubled by East, happened to be played by North. The inquirer states that the contract was defeated two tricks, and that none of the players could see any way of fulfilling the contract. He asks if it is possible to fulfill such a high contract.

There are several slightly different methods of making a small slam on the declaring side's holdings. I will give the method which off hand seems most logical, safe and simple. The opening lead was the Q of diamonds, which is the most natural lead, and perhaps the best one.

While the first trick may be won either by declarer or dummy, I would win with declarer's K. Dummy's Ace of diamonds and K of hearts should prevent loss of any trick in either red suit. Probably hearts can be established, enabling declarer to discard at least two clubs upon them. Dummy can ruff the other club. Trumps may be divided in any one of eight equally probable ways. In only two of those ways will the K be alone, making the Ace lead the best possible play. Proper blind trump play is to lead a low spade from North hand, then play low enough from dummy to cover East's card. Suppose we blindly follow the best probable play.

Declarer's second play is to lead his lone heart. Win with dummy's K. Lead back and ruff a low heart. Lead the 3 of spades. Cover East's card. As it will do him no good to play high, have East play the 7 and dummy win with the 9. Let West discard a useless diamond.

Lead the 4 of spades. Win with the Ace, dropping the J. Lead a spade, giving East his only trick. Holdings about the table will be like diagram following.

East is powerless. If he leads a diamond, dummy's Ace wins. Declarer lets go his last diamond on the Ace of hearts. Declarer ruffs a low heart, leaving two hearts established in dummy. Dummy ruffs a club, declarer discards his two remaining clubs on the two good hearts. The only other lead than a diamond, is for East to lead a club. If the Ace of clubs is led. Dummy ruffs. If any lower club is led declarer can win. Dummy can be entered by ruffing a club, or by leading a diamond. A small slam can be made against any defense.

TWO MORE EMPLOYED FOR COUNTY COMMODITY OFFICE

RELIEF SUPPLIES TO BE PROVIDED LATE THIS WEEK

Miss Southward, Franklin Crites Appointed; Warehouse is Obtained

Miss Clara Southward, W. Franklin-st., will be case worker for the county's newly organized surplus commodity agency, and Franklin Crites, N. Court-st., will be office secretary.

The appointments were announced Monday morning by D. H. Marcy, Williamsport, recently named director and case supervisor after a meeting with the commission. Both Mr. Marcy and Miss Southward are former FERA case workers.

The commissioners have obtained the Goldfrederick building, corner of Mound and Pickaway-sts., for a warehouse to store the supplies but the distribution clerk and his helper have not been chosen by the WPA office.

Three Spare Expense—BF

The agency is operated with the FERA, WPA and county commissioners sharing the expense. A portion of the office force salaries, the warehouse expense and a truck for distribution, will be supplied by the commissioners. Mr. Marcy estimated the expense to the commissioners will be about $300 per month. Warehouse employees are paid by the WPA.

The first distribution of supplies will be made next Friday. Mr. Marcy announced, as shipments are expected to arrive here within the next few days. These first shipments are expected to be food supplies with clothing and mattresses arriving later.

Work For Volunteers—BF

Persons interested in obtaining experience in social work are asked by Mr. Marcy to assist the agency in some of their investigations. No wages can be offered but the volunteer work will greatly assist the agency in its early organization period.

A large number of cases had been filed Monday with Mr. Marcy for investigation by township trustees.

The agency will be located in the Colville residence on E. Main-st.

LOCAL MAN DIES AFTER BEING HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Herschel Seymour, 47, Struck in Highway Near Veterans' Hospital

Herschel Seymour, 47, a resident of Circleville, was killed at midnight Sunday near the entrance to the veterans' hospital, near Chillicothe, when he was struck by the automobile of Oscar P. Brown, 34, of McArthur, an attendant at the hospital.

Mr. Seymour died while being taken to Chillicothe hospital. He had a fractured skull, broken left leg, broken left forearm, and other injuries.

The Ross-co coroner conducted an inquest Monday morning but found the death was accidental.

Brown was accompanied by John Dillahun and Ben Zickfoose, hospital attendants.

Mr. Seymour was walking north in the highway, the three men declared, and they did not see him until the front end of the car, also going north, struck him. Brown reported he had just met another automobile on the road and the lights had partially blinded him. The victim was walking in the right-of-way of his machine, Brown told the coroner.

Local authorities have not been able to correctly locate Mr. Seymour's residence. He carried an identification card notifying officials to notify Otis Moss, 434 E. Union-st., in case of accident or death. Police were also informed Mr. Seymour had been living with Harley Waidelich, near Bell's siding.

The body is being held at Ware's funeral home, Chillicothe, pending funeral arrangements.

Willard Cook, 27, of South Bloomfield, was treated in Mercy hospital, Columbus, Monday morning for cuts on the face and bruises suffered in an auto collision near the Franklin-co line.

Mr. Cook was injured when the Hudson sedan, driven by his brother, Charles, crashed into the rear end of a cattle truck, parked along the highway for a tire repair. The sedan was practically demolished.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff, who investigated this mishap, reported the truck was driven by C. L. Mitchell, Greenway-ave, Columbus. The accident occurred about 7 a. m. near the driveway to the powerplant on Rt. 23.

The brothers were enroute to Columbus where they are employed as carpenters.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—(UP)—

C. B. Smith, 42, manager of the Bliss hotel here, was in serious condition in a hospital today with a bullet wound which police said was self-inflicted. Associates said he had worried over business matters.

CHANGES IN 1936 SALES TAX LAWS ARE ANNOUNCED

With the reenactment of the Ohio Sales Tax law several changes were made by the legislature in regards to exemptions and license requirements. The change affecting the greatest number of people is in the section requiring farmers to have a license and collect the Sales tax on all articles sold by them, regardless of where sold or grown. No sales of farm products are exempt except in case of casual or isolated sales. Any one selling to the consumer is a vendor.

Charitable and religious organizations must collect also the tax on items sold by them, but they are given permission to buy articles used by them tax free. This is directly reverse to the old law.

Contractors are considered as vendors and as such will be required to have a license and collect the Sales tax from their customers on all items of tangible personal property used on a contract job. These items may be separated from labor and technical services.

New penalties provided by the latest law are the responsibility of the consumer to pay the tax and a clause taking care of the "chiesler" who buys second-hand stamps to use in place of new ones. The consumer is liable to a fine of $25 to $100 for the first offense and $100 to $500 for the second, or sixty days in jail or both. The consumer is also liable for an assessment for the amount of tax plus a 15 percent penalty in addition to the fine. The vendor buying used or counterfeit stamps is liable to a sentence of one to ten years in the Ohio State penitentiary and a fine of $50 to $500 for using such stamps more than once.

Every vendor is required by law to make five reports to the Commission during the period of the Sales Tax law as passed. This means one return every three months up to and including March, 1937. Failure to make any return will result in an arrest and fine with the possibility of having the vendors license revoked.

In his budget message to congress, President Roosevelt had recommended repeal of the act, terming it "unwise" and saying that it had been passed without proper thought and deliberation.

The farm bureau federation said money deprived from the 30 percent, estimated at approximately $90,000,000 annually, should be used for export bounty payments to aid in developing foreign markets for American farm products.

The state constitution permits a governor to grant reprieves up to more than 90 days after the date of conviction. Hauptmann was convicted in Flemington last January, but Hoffman and other governors have construed the clause to mean that conviction dates from the time the last appeal is refused.

But I don't know whether I'll grant a reprieve," Hoffman said with a harassed air. "I don't know what I'm going to do and I have no comment beyond that."

Tobaccoist Sought

NORRIS, Ill., Jan. 13—(UP)—A former resident of Minooka who was that town's chief user of a certain brand of chewing tobacco was hunted today as a suspect in the robbery of Seemen's general store. In addition to sardines, corned beef, gloves, shoes, stockings, cheese, bacon, and a lead half dollar with teeth-marks on it, the burglar took all of the store's supply of North State tobacco. A man who recently moved to Chicago formerly was Seemen's principal customer for that kind of tobacco.

NO RULING ON TVA

The Supreme court took no action Monday in the validity of the Tennessee Valley authority. The decision is expected next week.

ust 24 and the outlawing of the AAA last week processors were entitled to injunctions against collection of the tax.

New Theory Seen

The decision was interpreted by the administration as establishing a new theory in tax collection procedure. It will also add materially to the administration's 1937 budget problem.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(UP)—The Supreme Court today dismissed without passing on the merits, the suit of Lee Moor, Texas cotton planter, to have the Bankhead cotton control act declared unconstitutional.

Showdown Postponed

The ruling served to postpone the judicial showdown on the contested law until the court acts on the suit of the state of Georgia to have the statute ruled invalid. The Georgia suit has been accepted by the court and a ruling may be expected some time after Jan. 20 when the government is to file an answer. The Georgia suit was brought at the direction of Gov. Eugene Talmadge, a sharp critic of the New Deal.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—(UP)—In his weekly radio talk tonight, Governor Davey will discuss the work of the state division of insurance, it was announced today.

Only Doctor Jailed

REFUSING to pay the court costs of $400 ordered by the court at his contested divorce suit, Dr. E. C. Bechtel of Montgomery, Mich., only doctor in a township of 800 residents, was ordered to Hillsdale county jail. Efforts of citizens to get him out of jail by appealing to the judge as a safeguard against possible effects of the cold weather and prevailing pneumonia and croup, met with rebuff by the judge who persisted in payment first.

Bernard Fetherolf, 18, Faced
with Drunk Driving Charge

Bernard Fetherolf, 18, Laurelville, Rt. 3, was arrested by police Saturday night for driving when intoxicated after his auto struck the car of Charles Smith, parked on S. Court-st near the Pickens restaurant.

Officers chased Fetherolf south on Court to Mound and west on Mound, and arrested him after he had turned around and was driving out E. Mound-st.

At the request of the family, Fetherolf's hearing will be held Tuesday. He is held in city jail.

LIBERTY BELL SYMBOL OF PARTY'S CONVENTION

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—(UP)—The Liberty bell will be the symbol and insignia of the 1936 Democratic National convention.

This was revealed by W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the party's national committee, who came to Philadelphia to inspect Convention hall, scene of the June convention. "This Liberty bell which we so reverently salute," Morgan said, "this bell which tolled its message of freedom and happiness, will be the symbol and insignia of the Democratic National convention."

Morgan asserted that he had been authorized by Postmaster General James Farley, chairman of the national committee, to make the statement.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 13—(UP)—The hope of Bruno Richard Hauptmann to escape the electric chair next Friday all but died today. New Jersey law barred his way to every avenue except a forlorn appeal to federal courts. A possible reprieve had been ruled illegal.

Except for the remote possibility that a federal court might intervene, the entire burden of deciding Hauptmann's fate descended upon Gov. Harold G. Hoffman. And his authority was dubious. Attorney General David T. Wilentz declared that he had no power whatever to grant a reprieve.

Attorneys for Hauptmann launched their last fight for his life by employing a Washington firm of constitutional lawyers to advise them in preparing an appeal to a Federal District court for a writ of habeas corpus. The application for the writ will stipulate that an appeal is to be taken to the U. S. Supreme court on new constitutional grounds.

Refusal Demanded

Lawyers outside Hauptmann's counsel believes almost unanimously that the writ would not be granted. The Supreme court already has refused to intervene.

Despite opinions that a reprieve would be illegal, Gov. Hoffman in-

WOMAN ON WAY TO CHURCH RUNS INN. & W.'S PATH

Death is Instant Sunday
Morning for Aged Resident
of Home and Hospital

FUNERAL TUESDAY AT 10

Two Brothers, Number of
Nieces and Nephews Sur-
vive Fairfield-Co Native

Miss Mary Isabell Will, 82, a resident of the Home and Hospital was killed instantly Sunday morning while on her way to the Presbyterian church services when struck by a Norfolk and Western freight train at the Ohio-st crossing.

Miss Will left the institution about 9 a. m. Floyd Moats, 391 W. Ohio-st, a WPA employee, was standing in front of his home as she passed. He watched her approach the crossing. "She broke into a run about 15 feet from the tracks," Mr. Moats said, "and it looked as if she wanted to get across before the train arrived. I believe she was right in the center of the track when the engine struck her. It happened so quickly I didn't have time to call to her."

Body Carried 100 Feet

Her body was carried down the track approximately 100 feet, and was badly mangled. She was found lying between the rails. One leg was severed from the body. The train, an extra freight on the line, was traveling north and because of the curve at the crossing the trainmen apparently knew nothing of the accident. It did not stop but local officers learned the number was 107.

The remains were removed to the Albaugh funeral home, and then to the E. T. Snyder funeral home in Mt. Sterling. Mr. Snyder is a nephew.

Native of Fairfield-co

Miss Will had been a resident of the Home and Hospital for 10 years and observed her 82 birthday Jan. 6. She was born in 1854 in Hocking-twp, Fairfield-co, the daughter of Robert Will, formerly of Scotland, and Sarah Nye, a

Makes Opera Debut

LADY LUCK and illness of Richard Crooks, opera singer, combined to give Joseph Bentonelli, above, 33-year-old Oklahoma tenor, a chance with the Metropolitan Opera company in New York. Bentonelli, who made his debut in "Manon," had been given an audition only a week previously. Bentonelli now has a contract to sing in several other presentations during the season. His name—originally Benton in Oklahoma—became Bentonelli when he sang in Italy.

Raskob, Dupont Accused By U. S.

ANSWERS to charge of the internal revenue bureau in Washington that they connived to effect fictitious stock sale losses in an effort to reduce income tax liabilities were prepared by John J. Raskob, left, and Pierre S. duPont, heavy backers of the anti-New Deal American Liberty league, following the lodging of the formal accusation. The government charged duPont with "fictitious" stock losses of $1,946,048, and asserted that $54,169 was unreported as income. For the year in question, 1929, the government reported that duPont deducted an "alleged loss" of $3,120,645 while Raskob sought to subtract $4,375,523. Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, has had an appeal pending for some years. The government alleged that duPont and Raskob entered into an agreement to establish "fictitious losses."

INSURANCE MAN BALKS ROBBERY

Homer Spangler, W. Mill-St,
Hit on Head Saturday Night

Homer Spangler, 144 W. Mill-st, agent for the Prudential Insurance Co., was nursing a severe bump on the head Monday resulting from an attempted robbery at his home Saturday night.

A thug, hiding on a dark rear porch, struck Mr. Spangler on the head with either his fist or some hard instrument as he was closing his cellar door after bringing a bucket of coal from the basement.

Mr. Spangler reported the blow dazed him but he remembered grabbing the trouser leg of the man as he fell. His act apparently surprised the thug and he started off the porch dragging Mr. Spangler with him. The victim said he remembered hearing a ripping noise and believed he tore the robber's trouser leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Spangler had returned to their home from uptown about 11:30 p. m. As was his usual custom, he went to the cellar for a bucket of coal.

Mr. Spangler had approximately $100 in his pockets in insurance collections.

He was unable to describe his assailant explaining it was dark and he was partially dazed by the blow.

CLASS ENTERTAINS

The Sophomore class presented the program during the assembly meeting of the high school Monday morning.

It consisted of three vocal solos. Miss Dorothy Walters sang "Moon Over Miami"; Bob Fickard, "My Boots and Saddle," and Louise Helwagen, "Alone."

Ether Jones played a saxophone number, "Red Sails in the Sunset," and Philip Moore, Martin Walters, and Jimmy Moffitt entertained with their marionette show, "The Elves and Shoemakers."

James Wickenseimer Becomes
Civil Service Commission
Member

Charles O. Caskey, 722 E. Court-st, Democrat, and J. F. Mavis, 647 Mound-st, Republican, assumed office Monday as safety and service directors, respectively.

Mr. Caskey, operator of a restaurant on S. Washington-st, replaces L. T. Shaner appointed under W. B. Cady Mr. Caskey was not present at the city building Monday morning when Mayor W. J. Graham announced his appointments. He was suffering from a severe cold, and had an appointment with a physician.

In a telephone conversation he announced he hoped to be in his office Tuesday. "I can see no changes in either the Police or Fire departments at the present time," he told The Herald.

Former Streetward Replaces

Mr. Mavis succeeds W. H. Shaner, who resigned as streetward Sunday from University hospital, Columbus, where he is recovering from an operation. Mr. Mavis is a former employee of the street board, starting work there in 1929 and leaving in 1934. From 1934 to 1934 he served as straw buyer. He also served one year as superintendent of Forest cemetery.

The office of service director pays $1,100 per year and that of safety director $600. Both of the men named are former school mates of Mayor Graham at old Everts high building.

Mr. Mavis announced one change in his department. David Courtwright, Democrat, son of Dr. D. V. Courtwright, was named city engineer replacing Harry Griner. This position is operated on a part-time basis.

Wickenseimer Named

Mayor Graham announced the appointment of James Wickenseimer, grocer, a Republican as a member of the civil service commission. Mr. Wickenseimer succeeds A. J. Lyle, who was appointed Mr. Cady to fill the unexpired term of W. H. Cook, now living in Mt. Sterling. The term expired Jan. 1. Mr. Wickenseimer serves for six years.

All trustees of the Library board whose terms expired Jan. 1, were reappointed by Mr. Graham to serve four year terms. Those renamed are: Mrs. Clark Will, Republican, Lawrence E. Goeller and J. W. Johnson, Democrats.

N. E. Reichelderfer, executive vice president of the Circleville Savings and Banking Co., was named a trustee of the sinking fund and tax commission, succeeding George G. Adkins Democrat, whose term expired Jan. 1. Mr. Reichelderfer is a Democrat. He will serve four years.

Jackson on Health Board
Dr. H. D. Jackson, Republican, was appointed a member of the city Board of Health succeeding Dr. E. S. Shane. The term is five years.

SHIPS LOST IOWA SINKS; HALTS AID

Ships Endangered By Storms in Pacific Along
Shores of Oregon

ASTORIA, Ore., Jan. 13—(UP)—Coast guardsmen patrolled the mouth of the Columbia river today seeking the bodies of 29 of the 34 sailors drowned when the S. S. Iowa sank on Peacock spit, dreaded "graveyard of ships."

A change in the wind and the tide was expected to wash ashore most of the bodies.

The guardsmen, who were prevented by high seas and a 80-mile gale from reaching the Iowa as she sank slowly in the sandy spit yesterday, spread their patrol over a 28-mile front abutting the scene of so similar tragedies since the Columbia river was opened to navigation.

Watches on the Washington side of the river could see a slender steamship bobbing above the waves, all that remained visible of the 5,724-ton States Steamship company freighter which wind and wave and sand broke to pieces in incredibly short time.

Bailed By Winds
Rescuers were held back by the gale which sent the Iowa to her doom. The wind knocked down the breeches buoy ropes fired by coast guard boats which approached the scene and the waves prevented boats from coming close enough to board the wreck.

The Iowa was a victim of a sudden storm which produced a 90-mile an hour wind at the mouth of the river early Sunday.

When Capt. Edgar L. Yates, veteran skipper, took out the freighter from Portland Saturday night, the weather was normal. There was rain and some wind but nothing to presage the tragedy that was to follow.

The wind literally picked up the 416-foot freighter like a feather and tossed it on to the dreaded spit. Maritime authorities were investigating reports that Yates neglected to secure a pilot to take him over the river bar. But it was believed that with or without a pilot the Iowa could not have avoided the sands which pulled her to her death.

Frank Caldwell, radio operator, sent out a feeble S. O. S. at 3:49 p. m. It was the last call from the freighter.

The coast guard cutter Onondaga answered from Astoria but the storm drove her back time and again and it was six hours later that she finally approached the scene.

Commander R. S. Patch brought the 1,000-ton Onondaga within 1500 yards of the Iowa, close enough for him to observe through glasses that there was no living man aboard.

Watches Ship Wrecked

As Commander Patch attempted to maneuver closer, a towering wave smashed two lifeboats on the cutter and swept away the stacks and bridge of the Iowa.

Before patch turned the Onon-

Spencer's back toward the Columbia, only the foremost of the Iowa remained above the waves.

A short time later Captain Lars Bjelland, commander of the Point Adams motor lifeboat, reached the wreck and circled it several times. He, too, reported no life aboard.

Bjelland's boat picked up the wave-battered bodies of two seamen, their arms broken, about 500 yards inshore from the wreck. Three small guard boats barely made it back into the river, each craft leaking where the waves had opened seams, and the 18 guardsmen shaken and bruised.

The Onondaga itself had two life boats stove in, a boat davit twisted, ventilator atop the cabin bashed in by a wave, and the training mechanism or a three-inch gun ruined.

Commander Patch said the 34 men aboard the Iowa "never had a chance to escape death." "I am sorry we couldn't save at least some of them, but it was impossible," he said. "We saw no sign of life aboard."

Two other ships were endangered yesterday by the gales which blew eastward across the Pacific, bringing a storm which drenched the Pacific coast with rain, piled up a snow blanket in the mountains, and caused a number of deaths from traffic accidents and snow slides.

Rudder is Lost

The Canadian freighter, Rochelle, proceeding south from British Columbia, lost her rudder when 10 miles off the coast of southern Oregon. Waves kept the coast guard cutter Canokia from going to her rescue from Eureka, Calif. The Rochelle crew fixed a temporary rudder and continued slowly along the coast. It was not believed in danger.

The S. S. Romulus also lost her rudder 15 miles off Coos bay, Ore. The freighters Lumberman and Castlemann were standing by to assist her if necessary.

Reports a small schooner had broken up near the wreck of the Iowa were discounted.

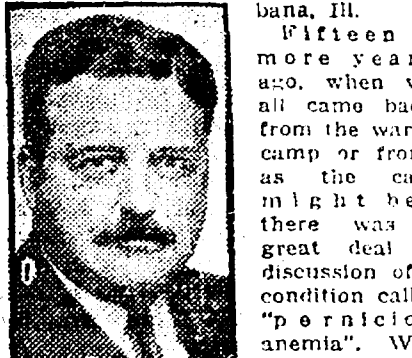

The Iowa was bound from Portland for New York via San Francisco with a cargo of lumber and flour.

Pernicious Anemia Talk Outdated by Treatment

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"WOULD YOU, at an early date, write an article on pernicious anemia? Is there a cure for it?" writes A. V. of Urbana, Ill.

Dr. Clendening

know, perhaps because we hadn't seen any of the disease in the army—our patients were too young—and we were tired of the endless discussions about influenza, were glad to change the subject and think about the chronic diseases of middle-aged people.

I remember the discussions about treatment—one person advocating transfusion, the other condemning it, the use of hydrochloric acid, and arsenic, and removal of the spleen.

Well, those discussions are all over now, quite out of date. There is no discussion of pernicious anemia any more. In fact, there is no pernicious anemia. A completely successful treatment came along about ten years ago and took the "pernicious" out of the name. In fact, if the treatment is faithfully carried out it takes the "anemia" out, too.

Hears Report

Last fall I heard the report of a physician who has charge of a large hospital devoted to these cases. He told of the condition of 500 people who had been on the liver treatment for from five to ten years. Most of them were entirely well; some of them had died, but of automobile accidents, or heart failure, or pneumonia, or old age—not of the disease itself, which 15 years ago we considered inevitably fatal.

Now this is quite a remarkable record. As short a time as ten years ago a patient who had pernicious anemia went to the doctor, and the doctor knew that in spite of any treatment he could apply that patient would, in all probability, be dead in four years. Now the patient can be assured that if a simple, harmless treatment, entirely free from troublesome or discomfort, is carried out, that death will be postponed indefinitely.

These things were well publicized ten years ago, when this treatment was first announced. From my reader's question, as put at the head of this article, it is evident that a whole generation has grown into the pernicious anemia zone without knowing it. It was of no interest to them ten years ago because they were not at the dangerous age.

Anemia of this type appears usually in the middle-aged period. It can be suspected most readily in a person who has "spells" (lasting several weeks or months) of weakness, with a peculiar waxy color of the skin, and frequently no loss of weight.

The principles of treatment will be discussed tomorrow.

Olsen, Wife Signed For New Series

Stars Start Broadcast Feb. 21; Little to Resume Work from Chicago Hotel

Radio Notes: George Olsen and Ethel Shutta, his wife, of "The German Band" fame, will go on the air controlled by the NBC Feb. 21 on a regular series.

The song fight, which involves, 600 pieces of music under control of Warner Bros., disgruntled over royalties, means that several stars of the air must change theme songs. Abe Lyman, is without his California Here I Come; Ray Noble cannot play his theme, The Very Thought of You, and there are a lot of others.

Irene Wicker, the singing lady, is going to Broadway, into a musical.

Little Jack Little, oh where have you been, will take Enric Madrugueras place at the Hotel Morrison terrace room, Chicago, Tuesday. He will send his music over the NBC.

Gene Arnold, interlocutor for the Greater Minstrels until recently skidded, will return to the air with a new minstrel in a short time.

Airplanes Compete With Athletes For Favor of 1936 College Co-Ed

Flying Clubs for Girl Students Becoming Popular

COLUMBUS, G.—Betty Co-Ed has gone air-minded!

In colleges throughout the country bright young things are donning helmets and flying suits and taking to the air in a big way.

Since the day in 1910 when Harvard college students held the first air meet in this country, there have been flying clubs in men's colleges and universities. But it is only recently that women have become active members in these clubs.

Smith college has one of the most enthusiastic groups of feminine flying students in the country. Lake Erie College for Women at Painesville, O., is the most recent to petition the National Intercollegiate Flying club for recognition.

Co-Eds Harnt Airport

And if anyone doubts that they aren't taking it seriously, just listen to what one of the fair flyers has to say about the situation. Joan Younger of the Ohio State University Flying club, organized in November, thinks nothing can compare with flying, as a sport and as a vocation:

Every free hour the girl flyers spend at the airport looking over planes in the hangars, "talking shop" and watching their friends make good—or bad—landings. Then they go up for their lesson and triumphantly come down to record some more time in their log books.

Must Fly 50 Hours

Fifty hours may not be so long a time in an ordinary lifetime, but it's a century in the life of an aspiring aviatrix. Fifty hours of flying time is the requirement for a private or limited commercial license.

Some of the colleges help the flyers along with lectures on aerodynamics and airplane construction. And co-eds who never have been nearer a motor than the driver's seat of an automobile take great joy in exploring the mysteries of airplane motors and fuselages. Instead of talking about dances, these air-minded young women now chat in aeronautical terms about air commerce regulations.

"Incomparable"

Ida Gaver of Columbus, whose brother is vice president of the National Intercollegiate Flying club and owns his own plane, is well on her way to a private pilot's license.

"It's too bad everyone can't have the opportunity to learn to fly, because there isn't anything that can compare to it. It's something I never intend to give up," Miss Gaver firmly announces.

Dorothy Fernberger of Cleveland, another flying aspirant, says: "There's no doubt that it is the coming method of transportation. I'm glad I got in at the beginning and I only hope there are more jobs open to women when I get my license."

program of Sunday, Jan. 19, when Gladys Swarthout, beautiful and talented mezzo-soprano of the Metropolitan opera, will a selection from Erich Wolfgang Korngold's new opera in the forthcoming film, "Give Us This Night."

TOURISTS EVADE AUTO TAX

SACRAMENTO, Cal. (U.P.)—Approximately one-half of the 4,000 automobiles "caravanned" into California during the past three months escaped the $15 caravan tax by entering the state over little used roads where there are no checking stations, motor vehicle officials estimated.

FARM LEADERS CONFER ON PLAN

Heads of Three Organizations to Approve New Set-Up

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14—(UP)—Farm organizations and the administration, in substantial agreement upon a farm program, rushed preparation today of substitute AAA legislation to be proposed to congress.

New Deal attorneys drafted proposals for a soil conservation program while heads of three principal farm organizations—the National Grange, the American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Farm Cooperative council—met to formally approve the plans.

On only one point did there appear a potentially serious rift between farm organizations and the administration. Strong farm opposition developed to President Roosevelt's request that congress repeal an act setting aside 50 per cent of customs collections for agricultural aids.

It was estimated the act, passed by congress in the closing days of the 1935 session, would provide $90,000,000 annually for farm aid. In his budget message, transmitted to congress the same day that the supreme court invalidated AAA, Mr. Roosevelt termed the customs act "unwise," and requested that it be repealed.

In approving a new crop production control program based on soil conservation, the 300 farm leaders, here to discuss substitutes for AAA, requested the 30 per cent provision be retained and, if possible, strengthened in its application. Proponents of the 30 per cent provision, it was learned, would have it used to make export bounty payments.

PRIDDIS, Alta. (UP)—A giant golden eagle with a wing spread of over seven feet, was killed here when it became lodged in a drift of snow. The eagle died after a rabbit and its feet were trapped in the soft drifts.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, acting when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c a dozen. ©1931 C. M. Co.

RED CROSS MAY WITHDRAW HELP FROM WAR AREA

Dr. Junod Demands Italy Pledge Hospitals Will Not Be Bombed

LONDON, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Dr. Marcel Junod, international Red Cross delegate, announced today that he would recommend withdrawal of all Red Cross units from Ethiopia unless Italy definitely promised not to bomb them, the Exchange Telegraph Addis Ababa correspondent reported.

Just returned from an investigation of the bombing of the Swedish Red Cross Hospital in the Dodo area, Dr. Junod said, according to the correspondent.

"There is no doubt that the bombing was deliberate," Dr. Junod, delegate in Ethiopia of the International Red Cross, said he would make his conditional recommendation for withdrawal to Red Cross headquarters at Geneva.

"Survivors of the Swedish hospital, 'Dr. Junod was quoted as saying, 'are living in terror of their lives at Muggeli (west of the former position near Dodo). Fearing another bombing, members of the unit spend their days in the surrounding forest, treating the wounded who arrive daily from the southern front. The population of the town evacuate it in the day time. The Swedish Red Cross flag is not shown any more."

FAIRFIELD CORONER DIES

LANCASTER, Jan. 13.—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for James L. "Gyp" Walt, 49, Fairfield-co coroner, who died in Lancaster hospital following a two weeks' illness of pneumonia.

Walt was prominent in athletic circles, having played on local football and basketball teams. He also served as an official for many years. He was completing his second two-year term as coroner.

SUNNY DAY ENJOYED

For the first time in many weeks Pickaway counties Sunday enjoyed sunshine and springtime temperatures.

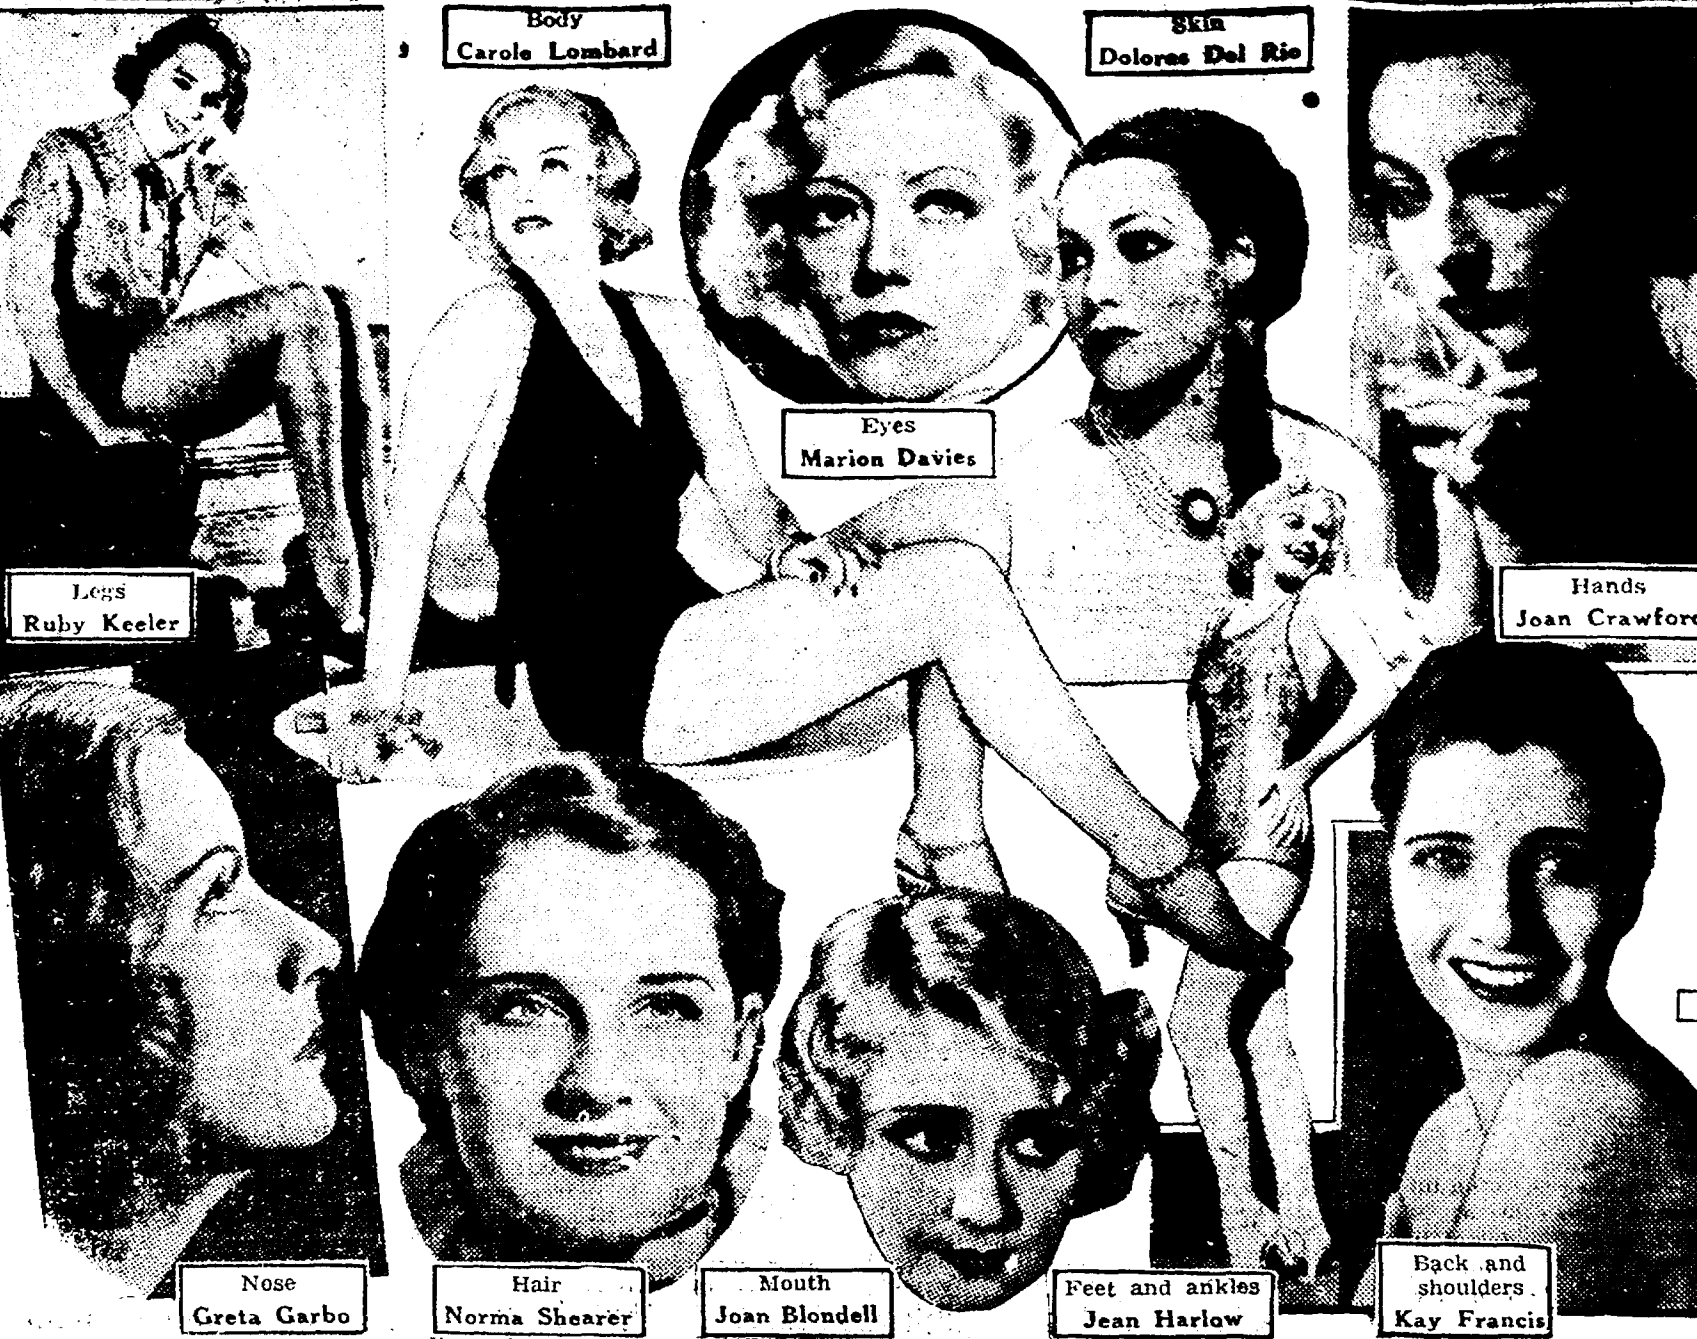

The temperature reached 44 degrees but gloomy weather returned Monday and lower temperatures were forecast for the early part of the week. The temperature at 7 a. m. Monday was 37 degrees.

Dr. H. R. Clarke reported the river at the seven foot stage, three feet above normal.

Question of Inflation in Minds of Harrison, Aides

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—(UP)—Senate leaders worked quietly but swiftly today to frame a compromise soldiers' bonus bill aimed at heading off attempts to use the bonus as a vehicle for inflation.

Details of a Senate bill probably will be announced today. Chairman Pat Harrison of the Senate finance committee, an administration spokesman, said in calling a meeting of his committee to begin consideration of the bonus issue.

The House, which passed the "united front" bill 356 to 59 Friday, did not provide a method of payment. House inflation leaders hoped to settle eventually on issuance of new currency.

In order to shut off adoption of a Greenback bonus bill, Senate leaders began working out a compromise calling for use of bonds which could be cashed in whole or in part. It was believed that this would ease the drain on the treasury and avoid drastic currency expansion.

KINGSTON

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carrie Holderman.

The Chapter Evangelical Education for Women of South America from the study book "Women Under the Southern Cross" was given by Mrs. Donald Kempton in a charming manner. Stewardship was discussed by Mrs. N. J. Ford stressing possessions, Service and Prayer. The Little Republic of South America was discussed by Mrs. Norman Pyle. "The Land of Pampas" discussed by Miss Unstead. The mystery box questions were in charge of Mrs. Kempton in the place of Mrs. George DeLong, who is ill.

The next meeting will be held on the regular date which will be February 6 with Mrs. W. R. Sunderland and Mrs. H. B. Shannon for hostesses. The meeting closed by all repeating the usual missionary benediction. Miss Katherine L. Brundage was a visitor. The hostesses served homemade cakes and coffee and tea.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Workman of Lucasville, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Walters and daughter Fearnie on Sunday.

The Social Circle of the Evangelical Reform church will hold its regular meeting on Thursday afternoon, January 16 at the home of Mrs. Roger Ross with Mrs. Orland Ross and Mrs. Paul Ross and Mrs. George Evans assistant hostesses. A splendid program is being arranged and a good attendance is urged.

Miss Ettowell Shannon left on Friday for her home in Los Angeles, California after a pleasant visit during the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Shannon.

The Flying Eagle Patrol of local scout troop No. 5 staged a fine twenty-minute program on Saturday evening in the scout room. Thirty-eight members and guests were present. Scouts in the troop are laboring hard to be one of the 20 members to be privileged to take the bus trip to Washington D. C. in June. This trip will surely be worth working for as it will be one of the finest projects to be accomplished during the year. The committee added to the scout room a question box in which all members are privileged to place all questions which they would like answered at the meetings.

Plans are being made for five leaders of the troop to usher at the basketball game to be played by Ohio State University on Saturday, Jan. 18. Assistant Scout Master, Dorah Morris will announce at the scout meeting January 11, plans for a trip to the Ohio penitentiary in the latter part of April. A talk will be given by an out of town speaker on "Safety Driving" on January 21. The proceeds will go toward the fund for the trip to Washington D. C.

Messrs. Will D. Wood, William Prindfle, Dorah Morris and Loring Hill attended the basketball game between Ohio State and Purdue University at Columbus on Monday evening.

WILLIAMSPORT

Mrs. Belle Bennett of Circleville spent a part of this week with Mrs. Mollie Anderson.

Those attending the Benefit Bridge Party of the Sew and So club at Atlanta Wednesday afternoon were Mrs. Lee Luehlen, Mrs. George Lemay, Mrs. Kenneth List, Mrs. S. B. Metzges, Mrs. Harry McGhee, Mrs. Edna H. Newhouse, Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Fannie Marcy, Mrs. F. B. Kirby, Mrs. W. D. Heiskell, Mrs. T. B. Gephart, Mrs. John W. Smith and Mrs. Russell McDill. More than sixty ladies were present to enjoy the occasion.

Harry McGhee left Saturday for Rochester, Minn. where he will undergo treatment at the Mayo clinic.

Mrs. T. B. Gephart entertained a small party of friends to luncheon, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fox have moved to Atlanta, where Mr. Fox will have charge of the Hughes I. G. A. grocery.

Mrs. George Hamman Jr. was hostess to the Brown's Chapel Missionary society Thursday afternoon.

The January meeting of the local W. C. T. U. will be held Thursday afternoon Jan. 16 at the home of Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker.

The carp (which is associated with the "annual observance of the boys' festival) is symbolic of vigor, persistence and strength.

SCHOOL DEBATE TEAM IN ACTION

Negative Team to Meet Amanda Tuesday

"Resolved that the several states should enact legislation providing for a system of complete medical care at public expense" is the subject of the series of interscholastic debates in which Circleville high school will participate this year. Local school authorities had nothing to do with the choosing of the subject, it being chosen by the state committee of the Ohio High School Debating league to be debated this year by high schools through the entire state.

Circleville high school makes its debut in the Ohio State Debating League Tuesday, when the local negative team travels to Amanda to engage Amanda high school.

The negative team is comprised of Mary Elizabeth Groce, John Griffith with Hilaire Haecker as alternate.

No judge has been definitely selected but the rival coaches have agreed upon a Capital University faculty member or a prominent lawyer from Lancaster.

The debate will be held in the Amanda high school at 8 p. m.

The team will make its appearance Jan. 20 in the local school when it debates North high of Columbus. Ann Vierebome and George Rader with Thelma Piper will carry the colors of the Red and Black on the affirmative team.

Robert Jewett, debate coach, has drilled both teams strenuously during the past few weeks on the question. The alternates on the local team deserve much credit for gathering and arranging the material for the talks which are to be presented.

The complete schedule is as follows:

- Amanda, negative, there, Jan. 14.
- North high, affirmative, here, Jan. 20.
- Washington C. H. affirmative, there, Jan. 27.
- West high, negative, there, Feb. 10.
- Newark, affirmative, there, Feb. 17.

CHURCH ENJOYS LARGE SERVICE FOR REVIVAL

Dr. T. C. Harper, pastor of the United Brethren church, reports that Sunday was an outstanding day at his church where a revival has been in progress for one week with Rev. Dewey Whitwell of Nashville, Tenn., as the evangelist. The evangelist spoke to the young people of the church at the Sunday School hour.

At the morning worship service the evangelist spoke on the "Tithe." This was an impressive message. The evangelist emphasized that the Bible recognized only one way of financing the church and that is with the tithes and offerings. He stated that we have manufactured a lot of questionable and unscriptural schemes of financing our churches and that accounts for a lot of the failures that are marked up against them.

At the evening hour of worship, Prof. Troy Beidon directed the large choir. The church was well filled to hear the evangelist dis-

AGE IN THE WHITE HOUSE

ONE of the interesting paradoxes of the present political situation is the fact that the so-called youth movement in the Republican Party has as its leader one who, if nominated next summer, will be the oldest man chosen as a presidential candidate in the country's history.

It has not been customary to associate Senator Borah with old age. Tall, erect, strong, and active physically, alert mentally and the intellectual superior of most of his colleagues, he might well pass as a symbol of eternal youth.

Perhaps this disposition to view him as a sort of an ageless statesman is due primarily to the fact that he is young in spirit and his political ideals have never become "set."

Nevertheless, there are practical difficulties involved in the circumstance that Senator Borah will be seventy-one next June. Conceding that his qualifications are not now impaired by the ravages of years, how will he bear up under the strain of responsibility and labor if elected, and will he be as robust at seventy-five as he is now?

Most of our presidential candidates have been comparatively young men. Theodore Roosevelt succeeded McKinley in the presidency at forty-two and was elected in his own right at forty-four. Grant, Cleveland, Pierce, Polk and Garfield were in the white house before they had reached the fifty mark. The oldest was William Henry Harrison, who was nominated and elected at the age of sixty-seven and only eight have been over sixty.

As the voting returns roll in in the Michigan congressional election, we suspect some of the victor's constituents are already demanding their $200 a month.

But why should we expect more from the Philippines in this matter of successful self-government than we do from the rest of the nations that are struggling along, hitting on two cylinders?

Funny humans! Statesmen trying to end warfare; schools teaching youngsters to admire great warriors.

Why does Junior tell lies? He ought to know it won't work when he catches you at it.

How to abolish war? Well, except when they are hunting food, few animals are dangerous unless you scare them.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

Washington probably is better acquainted with J. P. Morgan than any other city.

The old magnate has made two appearances here, as a witness before senatorial investigating committee. As such, it is impossible for him to keep ordinary folk from "contacting" him, at fairly short range.

I am not so sure that he objects to it either. It is his bodyguard that keeps the commonality at a distance. Maybe he would be glad to receive an occasional visit but it is difficult to run the giant of his henchmen. At his hotel, even in Washington the staff occupy about 40 rooms when he comes here, he is more inaccessible than a royalty.
 I have no doubt he is equally so in New York, London or elsewhere. But the public (as much of it as can squeeze in) can't be kept out of a congressional committee room. That's where the great man has to mix with his fellow human beings at close quarters—extremely close quarters;
 the size of the crowds he draws is restricted only by the amount of space available to pack them into.

CAMPAIGN TO DEFEAT SUPREME

COURT

WASHINGTON—The week since the momentous AAA decision has been one of sphinx-like silence for the New Dealers.
 But they have not been idle.

Behind the scenes they have been busy charting a campaign against the Supreme Court.

There is one opinion on which the New Dealers are completely unanimous, from the President down—namely, that if they do not defeat the Supreme Court, the Supreme Court will defeat them.

The resultant strategy they have evolved, so far, takes the following lines:

1. Sit tight until the Court has aroused public opinion by throwing out more
 New Deal projects.
2. Later, move either to grant police powers to and increase the general welfare powers of Congress by amending the Constitution; or, on the other hand, to abridge the power of the Supreme Court. So far the latter looks easier.
3. Meanwhile, stage an educational campaign on the battles between Congress and the Court during the entire history of the United States.

Considerable work already has been done on No. 3. As a result, the public may hear something about the proposal of James Madison to enable over-ruling a veto of the Court by a three-fourths vote of Congress.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Also the public may hear much of the Dred Scott Decision, may enjoy the unique spectacle of a Democratic president hurling into the teeth of the Republican Party the words of that party's most famous president—Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln, commenting on the decision, said the Supreme Court had got the doctrine of popular sovereignty down "as thin as homeopathic soup that was made by boiling the shadow of a pigeon that had starved to death."

Other powerful arguments made by Lincoln in opposition to the Supreme Court have not escaped the boys who have been researching for the President, especially where Lincoln said, "It is not resistance, it is not factious, it is not even disrespectful to treat it (the decision) as not having yet established a settled doctrine for the country."

There is just one flaw in bringing up the Dred Scott case. This is the fact that Chief Justice Taney, who handed down the decision which helped precipitate the Civil War, was appointed by the Democratic President Whom Roosevelt paid $50 to honor at the Jackson Day Dinner last week.

Roger Brooke Taney was a Maryland lawyer and slave-holder who first won fame by defending John Gooding, notorious Baltimore slave snatcher, caught smuggling 290 Africans up the Chesape-peake. Later President Jackson made Taney Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

MURDER UPSTAIRS

By ADAM BLISS

CHAPTER 43

JANET WALKED again to the window and pulled the curtains closer together. Then she went to the door, opened that, faced around and closed it softly. Her face wore an expression of grim seriousness.

When she sat down opposite me at the table and clasped her hands on the walnut surface, I noticed that two of her lovely nails were bitten down to the quick.

"No one can hear us, can they?"
 I shook my head. The walls of the library are very thick, doubly thick with the rows of Morton's books which I somehow had managed to keep.

The little jade dagger was near her clasped hands.

"It's about my brother, Mrs.
 Penny. You didn't know I had a brother, did you? I've been wanting to tell you but I couldn't. I couldn't tell anyone here. He's four years older than I am and a darling."

A sob came to her throat, and a tear rolled down one cheek.

"And he didn't do what they thought he did—he didn't because he told me he didn't and I'd believe Jerry before anyone else in the world." Another tear fell, and another, but she made no effort to wipe them away.

"Who are they, Janet? And what was your brother supposed to have done?"

"The police in Seattle. Jerry worked in a bank there, and I worked for a lawyer. Same kind of work I do now. We had been alone since our father died five years before. We don't even remember our mother—I guess that's why we've always been so close. I know I told you I came from New York, but I didn't."

"I've been there, and I know the city, so I said I worked and lived there. Mr. Brown thinks I worked for Mr. Hubert in New York, but I didn't. Mr. Hubert was a friend of my father's, and when I wanted to get away from Seattle, I wrote and asked him if he would say I had worked for him. He was glad to do it. I didn't go to New York. I came here. I don't know why, except that I didn't know a soul in town, and I did in New York and Chicago."

She paused and again I asked her what her brother had done. She needed prompting.

"Jerry was teller in a bank in Seattle. He went on a last night. He was young, for the responsibility, but we thought he had a great future.
 One day, just six months ago, his accounts were found $50,000 short."

"Jerry didn't even know about it, because whoever had meddled with them had done a good job of covering up. Well, Jerry was arrested, Mrs. Penny, and he was as surprised as anyone. He was flabbergasted."

Family Group Enjoys Birthday Celebration

Willis Neff Honored On Seventy-Second Anniversary

A family group gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Dewey, S. Court-st., Sunday to honor Mrs. Dewey's father, Willis Neff of this city and Buckeye lake, on his seventy-second birthday anniversary.

Mr. Neff received many gifts from his children and their families. Thirty-four were in the group enjoying the dinner at noon and the delightful social afternoon.

Included in the group were Mr. and Mrs. Neff and Miss Lena Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Carpenter and son, Jimmy, this city; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Neff and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Courtwright, Circleville; Mrs. Hazel Rader and daughter, Letitia, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Neff and daughters, Margie and Mary Ann, and sons, George, Hugh, and Charles, Jackson; W. T. Crites, Stoubsville; Omer Neff and son, Bobby, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Good, and Harry Neff and daughters, Phyllis and Patricia and sons, Harry Jr. and Richard, and Marilyn Hennessy of Grove City, and Mr. and Mrs. Dewey and sons, Eugene and Thomas.

To Leave for Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adkins, S. Court-st., plan to leave Wednesday or Thursday for Florida. They will drive through for a month to six weeks' stay visiting places of interest in the southern state.

Sunday evening, they were dinner guests of Mr. Adkins' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morris in Columbus.

Club Federation

Women from every part of the union and from several foreign countries will gather in Washington, D. C., this week for the mid-winter meeting of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's clubs. Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, president, and the chairmen of the nine departments of work, will outline their programs for the coming three years. "Education for Liv-

SCHOOL BOARDS NAME OFFICIALS

Stanley Glick Only Member of Circleville-Twp Board

Stanley Glick, Circleville Rt. 3, is the Circleville-twp school board at present. Three members have handed in their resignations and the fourth, Warren Harmon, recently moved into the city and is not eligible to serve.

Those who resigned are George Marion, Robert Liston and John Bell. All have served on the board a number of years. Mr. Bell had two years yet to serve while the two others were re-elected at the last election with their names written in on the ballots. It was reported the men were "just tired" of serving.

Mr. Glick has the authority to appoint the other members of the board, school officials believe.

VOLUME'S ABOUT LADIES TELL OF SOCIETY HISTORY

A Scotch lady of quality, a charming Miss from New England, and a frontier lady of the gold rush days in California, have added, materially, to an understanding of the social life and customs of earlier days in America, through three books which are now owned by our local library.

The "Journal of a Lady of Quality" is the story of a Scotch woman and her travels from 1774 to 1776, and is printed from her manuscript diary, preserved, and happened upon, in the British Museum. As a narrative, the journal falls into four parts, dealing first with the voyage from Scotland to the West Indies; second, experiences on the islands and the journey by water from St. Kitts to the Cape Fear river; third, life in the Carolina colony just before the War of Independence, and, finally, the last part, dealing with the experiences on the way back to Scotland. The editors have carefully checked the account with other existing records and, in their notes, show the accuracy of the author's observations.

"A Journey to Ohio in 1810" is the record kept by Margaret Dwight, a young girl, who, with a party of friends, left Connecticut for Ohio in the same year that saw the founding of Circleville. Traveling by wagon across Pennsylvania, over poor roads, and encountering many unforeseen hardships, stopping at primitive inns, or wherever night, or disaster, overtook them, this young lady of culture managed to chronicle her adventures, from day to day, with a rare sense of humor. On arriving at her destination, she sent the record, at her first opportunity, back to the cousin for whom she had written it. Carefully preserved by her relatives, it has recently been made available for wider reading by the press of Yale University.

"Frontier Lady: Recollections of the Gold Rush and Early California" by Sarah Royce, has a special value and distinction in its intimate account of a journey to California in the gold rush days, written years ago at the request of the author's son, Professor Josiah Royce. Against the experiences of the dangerous overland trek, and the difficulties of moving from one mining camp to another with a young family, stands forth the figure of a sensitive, educated woman, staunch in courage, loyal to her faith and her family, taught in a swirl of strange circumstances.

The staff of the Circleville Public Library take pleasure in recommending these three books, whether read as history, biography, travel, or just as entertaining stories. Janet Schaw, Margaret Dwight and Sarah Royce are very real people, who, little thought, when engaged in their pastime, that what they were writing would furnish information and entertainment so many years later.

Choose This Foresighted Pattern

Smart to now—and oh, so lovely for the coming coatless days of Spring and Summer! A frock like this latest afternoon model by Marian Martin will make you feel as fresh as the first robin's song. Make it up with a graceful elbow sleeve as pictured, a short puff sleeve, or with just an adorable little cap sleeve formed by extension of rounded yoke over shoulder. For a quaint, old-fashioned, new-fashioned effect, interpret the frock in paisley silk print as shown here. Or be gayly modern in one of the new flower of vegetable prints that come in silk, synthetic or cotton. This simple pattern is H9712. Size 12 to 20 and 30 to 40. Size 16 requires 4 yards 39 inch fabric.

Toward New Holland

Everybody'll be truckin' Friday evening New Holland where the big game of the pre-county tourney will be played with Ashville. New Holland and Ashville are always naturals, so be prepared to scramble for a seat to see this game of games. There'll be a preliminary between the girls' teams. The probable matchups are:

New Holland	Ashville
Hosler	Gray
Speckman	Grogg
Lindman	Young
H. Dennis	Steinbrook
Ater	Miller

Tigers to Bexley

The Tigers travel to Bexley Friday evening with hopes of stopping Bailey, Burgett, Erlendbaugh & Co.—Bexley's showing this year has been fair, but the team has been developing steadily and will be tough to stop. * * * 'Tis sincerely hoped the Tigers have their full strength. * * *

Roses for Gauthier

George Gauthier, veteran Ohio Wesleyan athletic director, has sounded a keynote that deserves a lot of consideration—Talking to Cincinnati scribes after the Bishop game Saturday evening, dropping the BAA leadership, Gauthier advocated expanding the Buckeye Athletic association for the good of all concerned—He wants St. Xavier, Western Reserve and Toledo admitted to the loop, and the janitor believes he is right—Either of these schools provide worthy competition, the league winner would receive wider recognition, schools in smaller towns such as Ohio U., Ohio Wesleyan, Miami, and Marshall would be given a chance to play in the larger cities and thus knock off more cash at the gate. * * *

Could Redeem Selves

Ohio State's cagers, it would seem, have dropped into their expected rut and will probably remain there—Football has been brought out of the doldrums in the last couple of years, why couldn't basketball be boosted a little—We wish Mr. Olson would take that Wisconsin job—Ohio, is trying to cope with teams possessing much taller players, and finding it darned difficult—If the Bucks should beat Illinois tonight, we might write a different column for Tuesday's paper. * * *

Only Three Unbeaten

Purdue, Indiana, and Iowa are unbeaten in the Big Ten to date, while Cincinnati is the only team with a clean record in the Buckeye. All teams, however, except Marshall, have won a contest, while losing another. * * *

Jesse Wants Standing

Jesse Owens, Ohio's great ebony flyer, will not compete in winter sporting events, even the Millrose games, because of his eligibility—"I want to regain my scholastic standing," Jesse says, and we hope he does. * * *

WHITLINGER STILL LEADS

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (UP)—Capt. Warren Whitlinger of Ohio State today maintained his lead among individual scorers in the Big Ten basketball race.

Whitlinger has scored 10 field and 15 free throws for a total of 37 points in three games. He scored nine points against Iowa Saturday night. A teammate, Thomas, is in second place with 24 points.

Bob Riegel, brilliant Illinois center, moved from ninth to third place with 23 points. His total is one more than that of Bill Harlow, Chicago, the scoring champion last year.

ALL WHO AIDED THANKED

The finance committee of the Pickaway-Twp. Parent-Teachers' association asked The Herald Monday to thank all persons who contributed and helped in making the drive a success.

12 FOXES KILLED LEADERS UPSET
BY 800 IN DRIVE ON OHIO COURTS

Pickaway-Twp P. T. A. Clears $75 in Big Day's Event

Do Fox hunters eat? Just ask the ladies of the Pickaway-Twp. Parent-Teachers' association.

Saturday noon they served approximately 500 hunters, used 100 pounds of hamburger, 60 pounds of baked beans, 125 pies, donated by residents and lost their count on the buns and cups of coffee. About 30 ladies assisted in preparing the lunch served in the garage at the school building. Two fees lines were used.

The fox drive will net the association about $75, members of the finance committee announced. Twelve Reynolds were killed and it is believed only two escaped through the lines. The drive was well planned and considered a huge success by township residents.

No regular roundup was held as it was impossible to hold back the crowd and form a circle. The drive ended on the Dunlap farm near Hayesville about noon. The crowd was estimated at 800. School buses were used to transport the drivers to the school building for the donation bidding and lunch.

Scores of Circleville residents took part in the event.

Wesleyan and Western Reserve Beaten; Forms Reversed

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13.—(UP)—A topsy-turvy basketball season in Ohio reached its dizziest heights over the week-end and today favored teams were faced with bitter to remain in the thick of championship races.

The two most surprising form reversals saw Ohio Wesleyan, winner of the Buckeye conference championship for the past seasons, and Western Reserve, early season conqueror of Wesleyan and the prime favorite for the mythical state crown, fall.

Wesleyan, the top-heavy choice at the start of the campaign to reach the Buckeye conference history by winning three straight court games, ran into a tartar in the University of Cincinnati and was defeated 26 to 24.

Cincinnati succeeded in bottling up Wesleyan's high scoring forward, Clovis Stark, and the Bishop's center, Parsons. The Wesleyan guards, Talos and Tavenner, scored 16 points between them, but couldn't swing the tide alone.

Bill Lloyd and Bill Raloff, two Cincinnati veterans were the main cogs in the Bearcat victory.

The Cincinnati triumph made the Buckeye conference a wide open one. Wesleyan was the only quintet given a title chance at the beginning of the campaign, but the entire complexion of the championship chase has changed now.

Balkin-Wallace, the defending Ohio conference champion, was the quintet responsible for the fall of the strong Western Reserve five and the Bereans left no doubt as to their superiority by the 50 to 27 margin of their victory.

Balkin-Wallace was beaten early in the season 28 to 18 by Ohio Wesleyan, a team which in turn fell 43 to 24 before Western Reserve. However, Saturday Coach Ray Wattle's two aces, Norman Schuch and Ward Powell, were "on" and Reserve's defense couldn't even partially halt them.

Schuch scored 22 points and Powell was responsible for 26.

BIERMAN TURNS POST
$15,000 TULANE POST

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (UP)—Unable to persuade Bernie Bierman to return to Tulane university as football coach, Dr. Wilbur C. Smith, director of athletics at the New Orleans school, today was en route to his home.

Bierman turned down an offer of $15,000 a year, deciding to remain at the University of Minnesota, where he has coached undefeated teams for the past three years. He was reported to be receiving $7,500 annually at Minnesota.

Smith conferred with Bierman and Frank McCormick, Minnesota's athletic director, over the week-end.

Bierman, a former Minnesota football star, coached at Tulane before returning to his alma mater three years ago.

C.A.C. PREPARES TO TANGLE WITH
CHILLICOTHE '5'

Big Taggart, Center, to Provide Difficult Job; Preliminary is at 7:30

The task of stopping John Taggart, big center, faces the Athletic club cage team as it meets the Chillicothe City club crew Tuesday evening on the local gymnasium.

Chillicothe writers declare that Taggart has been averaging between 13 and 25 points per game this year, and that no one, even big Ketchert, 8-foot center of the House of David crew, effectively put the dampers on him.

The Chillicothe team last to the big House of David team by only three points, and put on a real exhibition of scoring.

Other stars include Ike Drummond, John Kern, L. Blankenship, Verlin Blankenship, and Hedrick, the latter a member of the Ohio State squad for three years. Reserves include Hambell, Barnett, and Clab Smith, the latter an ex-Clarksburg athletic star.

The preliminary will bring together the C. A. C. reserves, led by Freddie Grant, against the Groveport Independents, a fast semi-pro team. The prelim will start at 7:30.

The Athletic club team has been practicing diligently and is in good condition for this game. The starting lineup has not been determined but it will be picked from Eby, Terhune, Walker, Heggie, Merriman, Gordon, and Purcell.

JIMMY HINES CAPTURES
RICH OPEN TOURNAMENT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Blond Jimmy Hines, Garden City, L. I., pro, today had assured himself a place among leading links stars of 1936 following his four stroke victory in the $5,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament.

Hines, virtually an unknown to western golfdom until two weeks ago when he bagged the $3,000 Riverside, Calif., open had to fight off a bad case of nerves as well as the challenge of Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., before he won yesterday.

Starting his last 18 holes with an aggregate of 296, three strokes ahead of Picard, Hines continued his par-breaking golf until the 15th hole then he began to waver.

Only the fact that Picard also blew up on his last few holes kept Hines from losing his lead as he finished with a 280 and collected $1,500. Picard finished with a 284, tied with Jimmy Thomson of Ridgewood, N. J., for second place.

Keogan Praises N. Y. U.
Team, and Criticizes
Its Shortened Court

By GEORGE E. KEOGAN
Notre Dame Basketball Coach

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY, coached by Howard Cann, is off to another good start. Cann has the same team, with the exception of Gross that represented N. Y. U. last season and hasn't lost a game this season.

Bill Rubenstein

Milt Schulman

It is a smart well-coached team that employs the old professional type of basketball. This consists of clever ball handling, cutting in and out until the proper set-up offers itself, and then the fast break for the basket and the shot. The team uses a tight man-for-man defense.

In Captain Bill Rubenstein and Milt Schulman, New York has two very clever men. Rubenstein is the guiding hand that runs the club—a very steady, heady ball player.

There has been much complaint about the games in Madison Square Garden. This is due to the fact that the floor has been shortened to about 52 feet and narrowed about six feet. A court 50 feet wide is narrow enough for play, and should not be cut down further. A 45 foot is limited enough space in which to maneuver your team, and should not be cut to 41 feet.

Last year the baskets in the Garden were transparent, and the rules state that they must be painted white.

Such things bother a team visiting there to a great extent. It seems the court could be arranged not to handicap teams who go there to play.

Notre Dame plays N. Y. U. at the Garden, Feb. 14.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. A. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

CORRECT PLAY IS SIMPLE

MR. JAMES DURLIE, who sent in today's hand from Buffalo, N. Y., does not give the bidding, so I cannot explain how so generous a contract as 6-Spades, doubled by East, happened to be played by North. The inquirer states that the contract was defeated two tricks, and that none of the players could see any way of fulfilling the contract. He asks if it is possible to fulfill such a high contract.

♠ A 8 6 5 3 2
♥ 5
♦ K 5 2
♣ K J 6

None ♠ K J 7
♥ Q J 9 8
♦ 9 7 6 4
♣ 10 9 7 5

♠ Q 10 9 4
♥ A K 7 4 3 2
♦ A 8 8
♣ None

There are several slightly different methods of making a small slam on the declaring side's holdings. I will give the method which off hand seems most logical, safe and simple. The opening lead was the Q of diamonds, which is the most natural lead, and perhaps the best one.

While the first trick may be won either by declarer or dummy, I would win with declarer's K. Dummy's Ace of diamonds and A-K of hearts should prevent loss of any trick in either red suit. Probably hearts can be established, enabling declarer to discard at least two clubs upon them. Dummy can ruff the other club. Trumps may be divided in any one of eight equally probable ways. In only two of those ways will the K be alone, making the Ace lead the best possible play. Proper blind trump play is to lead a low spade from North hand, then play low enough from dummy to cover East's card. Suppose we blindly follow the best probable play.

Declarer's second play is to lead his lone heart. Win with dummy's K. Lead back and ruff a low heart. Lead the 3 of spades. Cover East's card. As it will do him no good to play high, have East play the 7 and dummy win with the 9. Let West discard a useless diamond.

Lead the 4 of spades. Win with the Ace, dropping the J. Lead a spade, giving East his only trick. Holdings about the table will be like diagram following:

♥ 5 2
♦ K J 6

♠ J 10
♥ A Q 8 4

♠ Q
♦ A 8

East is powerless. If he leads a diamond, dummy's Ace wins. Declarer lets go his last diamond on the Ace of hearts. Declarer ruffs a low heart, leaving two hearts established in dummy. Dummy ruffs a club, declarer discards his two remaining clubs on the two good hearts. The only other lead than a diamond, is for East to lead a club. If the Ace of clubs is led, Dummy ruffs. If any lower club is led declarer can win. Dummy can be entered by ruffing a club, or by leading a diamond. A small slam can be made against any defense.

RELIEF SUPPLIES TO BE PROVIDED LATE THIS WEEK

Miss Southward, Franklin Crites Appointed; Warehouse is Obtained

Miss Clara Southward, W. Franklin-st., will be case worker for the county's newly organized surplus commodity agency, and Franklin Crites, N. Court-st., will be office secretary.

The appointments were announced Monday morning by D. H. Marcy, Williamsport, recently named director and case supervisor after a meeting with the commission. Both Mr. Marcy and Miss Southward are former FERA case workers.

The commissioners have obtained the Goldfrederick building, corner of Mound and Pickaway-sts., for a warehouse to store the supplies but the distribution clerk and his helper have not been chosen by the WPA office.

Three Spare Expense—BF
The agency is operated with the FERA, WPA and county commissioners sharing the expense. A portion of the office force salaries, the warehouse expense and a truck for distribution, will be supplied by the commissioners. Mr. Marcy estimated the expense to the commissioners will be about $300 per month. Warehouse employees are paid by the WPA.

The first distribution of supplies will be made next Friday, Mr. Marcy announced, as shipments are expected to arrive here within the next few days. These first shipments are expected to be food supplies with clothing and mattresses arriving later.

Work For Volunteers—BF
Persons interested in obtaining experience in social work are asked by Mr. Marcy to assist the agency in some of their investigations. No wages can be offered but the volunteer work will greatly assist the agency in its early organization period.

A large number of cases had been filed Monday with Mr. Marcy for investigation by township trustees.

The agency will be located in the Colville residence on E. Main-st.

Blames Guard

CHARGES by Dr. C. A. Wells, above, that "in all probability" Senator Huey P. Long was killed by his own bodyguards instead of by Dr. Wells' son, created a furor throughout Louisiana. In a 700-word letter to Gov. O. K. Allen Dr. Wells branded the statements that his son was the assassin as "political lies and propaganda, uttered for political purposes." Governor Allen refused to comment except to say that "when to my speeches you will hear plenty."

LOCAL MAN DIES AFTER BEING HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Herschel Seymour, 47, Struck in Highway Near Veterans' Hospital

Herschel Seymour, 47, a resident of Circleville, was killed at midnight Sunday near the entrance to the veterans' hospital, near Chillicothe, when he was struck by the automobile of Oscar P. Brown, 34, of McArthur, an attendant at the hospital.

Mr. Seymour died while being taken to Chillicothe hospital. He had a fractured skull, broken left leg, broken left forearm, and other injuries.

The Ross-co coroner conducted an inquest Monday morning but found the death was accidental.

Brown was accompanied by John Dillahun and Ben Zickafosse, hospital attendants.

Mr. Seymour was walking north in the highway, the three men declared, and they did not see him until the front end of the car, also going north, struck him. Brown reported he had just met another automobile on the road and the lights had partially blinded him.

The victim was walking in the right-of-way of his machine, Brown told the coroner.

Local authorities have not been able to correctly locate Mr. Seymour's residence. He carried an identification card notifying officials to notify Otis Moss, 434 E. Union-st., in case of accident or death. Police were also informed Mr. Seymour had been living with Harley Waidelich, near Bell's siding.

The body is being held at Ware's funeral home, Chillicothe, pending funeral arrangements.

Willard Cook, 27, of South Bloomfield, was treated in Mercy hospital, Columbus, Monday morning for cuts on the face and bruises suffered in an auto collision near the Franklin-co line.

Mr. Cook was injured when the Hudson sedan, driven by his brother, Charles, crashed into the rear end of a cattle truck, parked along the highway for a tire repair. The sedan was practically demolished.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff, who investigated this mishap, reported the truck was driven by C. L. Mitchell, Greenway-ave, Columbus. The accident occurred about 7 a. m. near the driveway to the powerplant on Rt. 23.

The brothers were enroute to Columbus where they are employed as carpenters.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13.—(UP)—C. B. Smith, 42, manager of the Bliss hotel here, was in serious condition in a hospital today with a bullet wound which police said was self-inflicted. Associates said he had worried over business matters.

CHANGES IN 1936 SALES TAX LAWS ARE ANNOUNCED

With the reenactment of the Ohio Sales Tax law several changes were made by the legislature in regards to exemptions and license requirements. The change affecting the greatest number of people is in the section requiring farmers to have a license and collect the Sales tax on all articles sold by them, regardless of where sold or grown. No sales of farm products are exempt except in case of casual or isolated sales. Any one selling to the consumer is a vendor.

Charitable and religious organizations must collect also the tax on items sold by them, but they are given permission to buy articles used by them tax free. This is directly reverse to the old law.

Contractors are considered as vendors and as such will be required to have a license and collect the Sales tax from their customers on all items of tangible personal property used on a contract job.

These items may be separated from labor and technical services. New penalties provided by the latest law are the responsibility of the consumer to pay the tax and a clause taking care of the "cheater" who buys second-hand stamps to use in place of new ones. The consumer is liable to a fine of $25 to $100 for the first offense and $100 to $500 for the second, or sixty days in jail or both.

The consumer is also liable for an assessment for the amount of tax plus a 15 percent penalty in addition to the fine. The vendor buying used or counterfeit stamps is liable to a sentence of one to ten years in the Ohio State penitentiary and a fine of $50 to $500 for using such stamps more than once.

Every vendor is required by law to make five reports to the Commission during the period of the Sales Tax law as passed. This means one return every three months up to and including March, 1937. Failure to make any return will result in an arrest and fine with the possibility of having the vendors license revoked.

At the same time, the federation council adopted a resolution recommending the retention of the act setting aside 30 per cent of the customs collections for development of agriculture.

In his budget message to congress, President Roosevelt had recommended repeal of the act, terming it "unwise" and saying that it had been passed without proper thought and deliberation.

The farm bureau federation said money deprived from the 30 per cent, estimated at approximately $90,000,000 annually, should be used for export bounty payments to aid in developing foreign markets for American farm products.

ATTORNEYS FOR BRUNO TO URGE JUDGES TO ACT

dedicated that he may order one. It probably would be respected, since precedent has been established by several governors over a long period of time.

The state constitution permits a governor to grant reprieves up to more than 90 days after the date of conviction. Hauptmann was convicted in Flemington last January, but Hoffman and other governors have construed the clause to mean that conviction dates from the time the last appeal is refused.

"But I don't know whether I'll grant a reprieve," Hoffman said with a harassed air. "I don't know what I'm going to do and I have no comment beyond that."

Changes His Mind
He reneged in New York last night on his previously declared intention of ordering Dr. John F. (Jafie) Condon returned from Panama, where he is bound on the S. S. Santa Rita.

The young governor said Saturday that he thought Condon's sudden departure Friday night was "highly significant" and he intended to have him returned for questioning.

But last night, hurrying from mysterious conferences with unidentified men on a New York street, he said:

"I don't know any more about Condon than I do about any other future aspect of this case. What can I do? He's on his way to South America. I can't stop him."

Hoffman has been Hauptmann's best hope for several months—since the governor and the condemned man talked privately for an hour last October in the state prison death house—and his baffled admission of helplessness betrayed the failure of Hauptmann's last hopes.

Hoffman said he went to New York yesterday "purely for relaxation."

LONDON "TOPPERS" RETURN
LONDON.—(UP)—"Toppers" are coming back. Increased numbers of them may be seen in the City (business section of London) every day. It is even reported that two large banks have let it be known among their staffs that silk hats are the thing to wear for those who want to get ahead.

TOBACCOIST SOUGHT

NORRIS, Ill., Jan. 13.—(UP)—A former resident of Minooka who was a certain brand of chewing tobacco was hunted today as a suspect in the robbery of Seemen's general store. In addition to sardines, corned beef, gloves, shoes, stockings, cheese, bacon, and a lead ball dollar with teeth-marks on it, the burglar took all of the store's supply of North State tobacco. A man who recently moved to Chicago formerly was Seemen's principal customer for that kind of tobacco.

NOT ROBBED, BUT COLD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Police answering an alarm that a robbery was in progress at a cafe entered with drawn revolvers and found the proprietor with his hands above his head. The steam pipes ran overhead, he explained, and he was trying to warm his hands.

RADIO HELPS YEGGS

CLEVELAND, Jan. 13.—(UP)—A gang of safe crackers, carrying a short wave radio receiving set, entered a City Ice and Fuel Co. station (bound the night watchman and started to work. First they plugged the set on a light socket and tuned in on the police radio station. For nearly three hours they worked on the safe while listening to orders sent to police cars. Then, with $1,000, they picked up the set and walked outside to a waiting automobile.

SACRAMENTO, Cal. (UP)

California mountain lions had a tough year, 227 being killed during the first 10 months by state and hunters.
